Proposed Price Probe Attacked In Upper House

Bailey's Plan Encounters Widespread Opposition in Senate

Washington — (U) — Widespread opposition developed in the senate to a proposal by Senator Bailey (D-N. C.) for a congressional investigation of commodity prices.

Bailey sought a vote on a committee-approved resolution to appropriate $25,000 for a 30-day inquiry into monopolistic practices as they affect prices to consumers.

Some administration supporters, however, were quick to question whether a $25,000 fund would do any more than "scratch the surface."

"I don't think any congressional committee is equipped to do the job," commented Senator Norris (I-Nebr.). "If an inquiry were made, it ought to be very broad and comprehensive."

An investigation could be handled by the federal trade commission, he added, but not with such a "wholly inadequate" appropriation.

The trade commission spent $250,000 in an investigation of farm prices alone, Norris pointed out.

LaFollette's View

"If we are going to try to get the facts about monopolistic price fixing," Senator LaFollette (D-Wis.) declared, "there should be a study of the whole question of monopoly and competition. It would be futile to attempt to do it in a month."

Bailey told the commerce committee that he thought the price structure, labor costs and business profits could be "sampled" quickly and the resulting data could be made the basis of remedial legislation.

Senator Schwelb (D-Wash.) declared that, since President Roosevelt has indicated he would make recommendations to congress on monopoly legislation, "it would be better to wait to see what he recommends."

Mr. Roosevelt, back in the White House after a rest at Hyde Park, continued his study of the general business situation. His next conference, at a date yet to be set, will cover railroad finances.

Bailey denied any intention of "jumping the gun" on the administration.

He said he sought a broad investigation to shed light on the cost of food, clothing, building materials, power production, farm implements and rates of taxation.

The inquiry should demonstrate, he observed, "whether there is any disparity as between prices paid for raw materials, prices for labor and prices charged to the consumer."

"Necessarily," he said, "in investigating prices we would investigate profits."

Senators Borah (R-Idaho) and O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) endorsed Bailey's proposal as likely to lead to disclosure which would increase sentiment for their federal corporation licensing bill.

William R. Dawes Heads Ripon College Trustees

Ripon — (U) — President Silas Evans of Ripon college announced yesterday the election of William R. Dawes, Chicago, as chairman of the college board of trustees.

Evans said the college was newly created in line with the modern trend in college management.

Dawes, a trustee since 1906, is chairman of the board of the Central Illinois Securities corporation, and formerly president for five terms of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Tentative plans for a long term development of student housing facilities, to be begun this spring, were presented to the trustees by Miss Shirley Farr, Chicago, vice president of the board.

The plans are scheduled for detailed consideration by the trustees at their May meeting.

McNUTT PAYS RESPECTS TO SECRETARY WOODRING

On his official round of calls in Washington following his arrival in the capital to report to the President on Philippine affairs, Paul V. McNutt (left), high commissioner to the Philippines, stopped in to see Secretary of War Harry Woodring (right). When questioned about presidential aspirations he said "I am not a candidate" for any political office.

Touch of Hollywood Marks Reception for Paul McNutt At Hotel in U. S. Capital

Washington — (U) — A new kind of political debut that smacked more of Hollywood than of Washington put Paul V. McNutt of Indiana before the nation today as a Democratic presidential prospect for 1940.

The tall, tanned former governor who now is high commissioner to the Philippines greeted 3,141 men and women with a "how-do-you-do" and a handshake and a smile last night at a reception as sumptuous as any the oldest capital onlookers could remember.

The party drew almost as many congressmen as a Democratic caucus. Two cabinet members—Attorney General Cummings and Secretary Roper also passed down the receiving line.

Absent, however, was Senator Frederick Van Nuys of Indiana, who is conducting an independent campaign for reelection after breaking with the McNutt organization.

Van Nuys said an attack of lumbago kept him at home.

Colorful Scene

McNutt, 46, wearing formal afternoon attire of frock coat and striped trousers, stood with his host, Senator Sherman Minton of Indiana.

McNutt, "Not Candidate"

One enthusiastic feminine admirer said, "congratulations and good wishes, governor." Strictly speaking, McNutt said, her remark may have been a bit premature for McNutt said repeatedly he was not a candidate "for any public office."

The Indian's backers expressed elation over the outcome of the unprecedented venture of presenting their "favorite son" to national political society two and a half years before the election.

Frank McHale, rotund Indiana Democratic committeeman, told reporters that "the time to push in your chips is when the cards are running right."

To this he added subsequently, "we're not bringing Paul out too soon. We're merely getting the people acquainted with him."

It was generally conceded among his backers, however, that the only thing which would prevent his going after the Democratic nomination would be a decision by President Roosevelt to seek a third term.

Aldermen Approve Time Extension To Finish School

School Board Requests Will be Submitted to PWA Authorities

Requests of the board of education for an extension of time from March 1 to June 15 to complete the new senior high school and for a redistribution of construction funds were approved by the city council at a special meeting last night.

Both requests now will be submitted to PWA authorities at Chicago for approval. The proposals were not discussed by the council. However, Seymour Greiner, president of the school board, said at the 106-day extension is made necessary by a plan to furnish and install light fixtures with the aid of PWA funds and would not affect present contracts.

The redistribution of funds entails substitution of $15,834.20 for the light fixture contract using money which previously had been allocated for exterior work, extra contingencies and landscaping. The school board will pay for exterior work and landscaping. The reallocation does not alter the original estimate.

Tax Bill Eases Business Burden, Vinson Believes

held corporations eliminated, and capital gains taxed at perhaps a flat 12 1/2 per cent rate.

Vinson said the highest tax applicable to any corporation under existing law, is 32 1/2 per cent. The biggest rate proposed in the new bill for ordinary corporations is 20 per cent. Thus, he said, there is a 40 per cent differential between the old and new top rates.

The highest tax proposed for any corporation with earnings of $25,000 or less, Vinson said, is 14 1/2 per cent, while those with net incomes up to $5,000 would pay 12 1/2 per cent at the most. A provision for allowing deductions for property depreciation, he continued, allows "very material relief."

"Then there is a carryover of operating losses in the succeeding year to be used to reduce either the undistributed profits tax on big corporations or the surtax on closely-held corporations or both."

Tax Misunderstood

"This tax on closely-held or family corporations—called the 1B tax—is generally misunderstood. While the rate is 20 per cent, the amount of income to which it is applied is materially reduced from the original net income and at no time would it possibly be what some folks consider a second 20 per cent tax."

The 20 per cent surtax would apply only to income remaining after its normal taxes, and then subtracted one of these three: $50,000 20 per cent, or the amount used for debts, whichever was greatest.

Only firms with more than 50 per cent in value of outstanding stock owned by one individual or up to 75 per cent owned by 10 or less individuals would be classed as closely-held.

"In understanding this 1B tax," Vinson went on, "it is first necessary to realize that it does not affect any corporation unless its net income is more than $75,000. It will not affect any corporation that distributes as much as $7.6 of its net income."

The treasury estimates there will be only 300 to 600 subjected to the tax, in the final analysis, he said.

Visiting Nurse Plan Selected as Topic for Forum

Third Meeting of Discussion Group Will be Held Monday Night

"Shall Appleton have a Visiting Nurses association?" will be the question for discussion at the third meeting of the Appleton Forum at 7:30 Monday evening in the Appleton High school auditorium.

The question has been discussed by small groups in the city but has never been aired at a public gathering. Various cities in Wisconsin have visiting nurses associations, administered by the city, a health organization, or a medical group.

The association in Neenah-Menasha, for example, is administered by women from the two cities who make up the staff of officers and board of directors and work with an advisory committee of men. The work is financed by popular subscription. The Neenah-Menasha association has a staff of four, a supervisor and three nurses.

Speakers for Monday night's forum will be announced tomorrow. Hombor Gebhardt, secretary, said today. Members of the forum's program committee are the Rev. John B. Hanna, chairman, H. H. Helble, Carl Sherry, Carl Smith, George Wettengel, Mrs. R. A. Peterson, and Miss Linda Hollenbeck.

After one or more speakers have dealt with the subject, the forum meeting will be thrown open to general discussion. Dr. J. B. MacLaren is president.

The complaint said: "The commission was not informed of complaints or inquiries made concerning the Buckman company and the Buckman company, by reason of information improperly obtained, was able to suppress complaints to be withdrawn or settled after investigations there of hindered or prevented, contrary to law."

During hearings in bankruptcy, which are to be resumed March 1, Buckman officers have denied the charges of special state attorneys that the investment company was insolvent at least a year before the firm closed its doors.

Investigation of the company was started by the public service commission in Milwaukee last November after Dinneen had left the commission. At the outset of this probe the company surrendered its license to sell securities. Further investigation was made by special state attorneys appointed by Governor LaFollette.

Commission Learns Fine Arts of Hair Dressing

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)

Madison—The price of milady's beauty is steadily falling. Wisconsin's trade practice commission was informed Wednesday, as charming followers of the art of female beautification filled the solemn chamber of the Wisconsin state senate at the capitol to plead for a code of fair competition for beauty parlors.

More than 100 beauticians, all showing abundant evidence of their own skill, told the male commission that their profession is in a bad way.

The life of a beautician has become so appealing to the modern Wisconsin maiden that she is flocking to beauty colleges which are turning out so many finished creators of lovely ladies that prices have been ruined, wages are shameful, and business, well, is "lousy."

Where a self-respecting operator of a beauty parlor—the more meticulous called them salons—could with a clean conscience charge $25 for a permanent wave 15 years ago, conscienceless newcomers are now offering a product at $2, and sometimes for $1.50, they boasted.

Explain Methods

Members of the commission and its lawyers dutifully listened to patient explanations of the intricacies of hair dressing, how many locks of a lady's hair must be curled to make a permanent wave, how permanent a "permanent" really is, definitions of a variety of styles, and opinions on what is fair price for the services of an operator who has the proper pride in her craftsmanship.

For wives who have a personal interest in such things, and for husbands who feel a budgetary concern, here is some of the enlightening material volunteered by witnesses on both sides of the code question:

A permanent wave can be administered in half an hour, but a good one requires two or three hours.

Anybody can curl a lady's hair, but a good curl is a work of art.

An ounce of the impressively named solution used on the head goes a long way.

Don't buy one of those home-curling outfits. They're worthless. "Don't call in Jones' daughter. Tell her to do your hair. She'll wreck it."

Proponents of the code, citing present unfair trade practices in the beauty parlor business, claimed that some unethical practitioners are now offering a free photograph with every hair wave, and throw in a set of dishes.

Opponents of the code, in essence, argued that the continued beauty of Wisconsin's womanhood and maidenhood will be imperilled by higher prices, as proposed in the code. In other words, women will buy a $2 or $3 wave, but will curl their own if the price is $5.

persons now on WPA rolls, plus about 500,000 who recently became unemployed in private enterprise.

As soon as Mr. Roosevelt signs the bill, officials said from 100,000 to 200,000 persons probably will be placed on WPA rolls in areas where the business recession hit hardest.

Propose New Dim

Aubrey Williams, acting WPA administrator, said the appropriation would depend on recommendations from regional field officers.

Having finished the relief debate, the senate turned today to the bill appropriating 1939 funds for independent federal agencies, an immediate battle developed over a $2,763,000 appropriation to start construction of a Tennessee Valley authority dam in Kentucky, home state of Democratic Leader Barkley.

The house had no important legislation before it, but its labor committee met to consider the advisability of reviving the 1934 NRA wage standards and differentials in a new wage-hour bill. No decision was expected today.

Japanese Island Under Air Raid Warning as Chinese Warplanes Threaten Attack

were sighted over the sea northeast of Formosa, heading eastward. (This would point them in the general direction of Kyushu.)

Air raid alarms were issued in Formosa, but lifted when the planes disappeared over the horizon.

8 Dead, 29 Hurt

Formosa counted 8 dead and 29 injured as a result of yesterday's attack. The whole island was on the alert for a possible second raid by Chinese bombers from somewhere on China's east coast, 120 miles to the west.

First direct word from Tachoku, Formosa capital, said the American consulate there was shaken but not damaged in the bombardment.

An eyewitness telephoned this account of the bombardment to Tokyo:

"We knew that aerial maneuvers were being held in Japan proper and at first it was thought unscheduled trials had been extended to Formosa. The defense preparations, which had been rehearsed for weeks, worked perfectly. "Some civilian casualties came from people running out to see the

Proper Treatment Will Cure Scabies In Short Period

Cleanliness Is First Requisite to Rid Person of Itch, Society Says

Madison — "Scabies, or the itch, can be cured in a short time with intelligent and proper care," according to the weekly bulletin of the state medical society.

"The itch, also known as scabies, Cuban itch, seven-year itch, etc., is caused by the itch-mite, a small bug or animal parasite, that can be seen with the aid of an ordinary magnifying glass. The itching is caused by the digging of the female itch-mite when she digs her tunnel to lay her eggs.

"The female makes her tunnel in the tender moist spots of the skin such as the areas between the toes and fingers, around the waist, or at the elbow. On the back of the itch-mite are several bristles which prevent her from turning back. She must always go forward. She may live for several months in her tunnel where she lays on egg or two each day, as many as twenty eggs having been found in a single itch-mite tunnel. The eggs hatch in a period varying from three to seven days, and in two weeks there are full grown itch-mites on the skin surface ready to go to work and dig their own tunnels and lay more eggs. In this way the itch may continue indefinitely.

Spread of Scabies
"The spread of scabies is due directly to the concentration of the population in confined areas, although it is also found in rural area. In school, scabies may be transmitted when hands are linked together in games, or it can be spread by interchange of hats or gloves, borrowing pencils and many other ways.

"In adults the itch can be transmitted from one person to another by handshaking, borrowing clothes, sleeping in a bed where the bed linen has not been changed, from towels, combs, and from any of the other means by which we come in contact with our fellow citizens. "The first rule or regulation in the treatment of scabies is cleanliness. A warm bath should be taken, using plenty of soap and water. Next all the clothes worn by the patient should be thoroughly sterilized. This means the underclothes, pajamas, towels, handkerchiefs, and the outer garments. The linens and cottons can be boiled for a full twenty minutes to be effective, and the woollens can be baked.

Special Ointment
"When the patient has finished his bath a special ointment is applied over the entire body except the head and face where the itch is most never occurs. Each person's skin is individual and some skins are more sensitive than others. The attending physician will prescribe a specific ointment which is always necessary in addition to the above cleansing and sterilizing procedures.

"Underwear, night clothes, bed sheets, pillow cases, and other garments should be changed each day and immediately sterilized. This procedure is followed for four days, and when the patient takes his bath the fifth day he should be free from the itch.

"Reinfection is caused by failure to sterilize the clothes worn by the patient or the furniture which he handles.

"Diagnosis of scabies is often difficult, as is likewise the treatment. A reliable physician should be consulted always. Much damage can be done by unsupervised home treatment of this disease."

Finish Immunization Program in Schools

A program of immunization against diphtheria, conducted in Appleton schools during the last six weeks, was completed yesterday when the toxoid was given to pupils of Lincoln school, according to Miss Mary Orison, school nurse.

The toxoid was given to pupils of the kindergarten, first and second grades of all public and parochial schools. Permission was secured from parents before the toxoid was given and Miss Lina Johnson, school nurse, assisted in the work. A report is being prepared and will be submitted to the school board.

Petroleum Association Condemns Prize Games

Milwaukee — (T) — Condemning bank nights and other prize games conducted by filling stations in Wisconsin, the Wisconsin Petroleum association Wednesday authorized its board of directors to take legal and other steps to stop the practice.

The oil men, in convention here, termed as "a bad practice" the giving away of trading stamps, oil, and merchandise for "lucky" automobile license.

Roy L. Brecke, secretary of the association, said adoption of the resolution should encourage the attorney general and district attorneys to act against those who continue the practice.

"Bank night and all other practices of the nature are a violation of existing law and fair trade practices," said Brecke.

The association also adopted a resolution that gasoline prices be based upon Chicago quotations rather than trade publication quotations. Members said they could buy and sell more cheaply on Chicago prices.

YOUR Income Tax

DEDUCTIONS FOR LOSSES
Deductions for losses are divided into four classes, and to be allowed must follow closely the wording of the income-tax law. Losses are deductible if incurred (1) in the taxpayer's trade, business, or profession; (2) in the transaction entered into for profit; (3) for fires, storms, shipwreck, or other casualties, or from theft; and (4) from wagering transactions.

Business losses result, usually, from the purchase and sale of merchandise. Such losses usually are ascertained by means of inventories, which are required whenever in the opinion of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue their use is necessary to determine the income of any taxpayer.

The term "transaction entered into for profit" means any kind of business proposition. For example, a taxpayer purchases an automobile to be used solely for business purposes, and which is sold at a loss. As this is a business proposition from start to finish, the loss is deductible, subject to the limitations of section 117. But if he had purchased the automobile to be used for pleasure or convenience, the deduction would not be allowed; it was not a transaction entered into for profit.

A loss sustained in the theft of an automobile purchased for pleasure or convenience is deductible, as it falls in class 3. If, because of faulty driving but not of "willful negligence," an automobile maintained for pleasure is damaged, the taxpayer may claim the loss sustained as it comes within the meaning of the word "casualty." Where damages result from the faulty driving of an automobile with which the automobile of the taxpayer collides, the loss occasioned the taxpayer likewise is deductible. Losses from wagering transactions, whether legal or illegal, are deductible only to the extent of gains from such transactions. The excess of such losses over the gains is not deductible.

All losses are deductible only to the extent to which they are not compensated for by insurance or otherwise. Deductible capital losses are further subject to the limitations of section 117.

ern district of Wisconsin, appointed Walter H. Cate, 29, United States court commissioner here Wednesday to succeed the late Walter S. Cate. The new appointee is the son of Walter S. Cate.

35 Candidates for City Offices File Nomination Papers

Kox, Peotter, Unopposed For Relection to Treasurer, Assessor Jobs

Five more candidates for city offices Wednesday filed nomination papers for the primary election, March 15, with Carl J. Becker, city clerk. Yesterday was the deadline for filing.

One new candidate appeared and two others were dropped from the list of 35 when they failed to file before deadline. The new aspirant is Theodore Sanders, 1015 W. Prospect avenue, who is seeking nomination as third ward alderman. The two men dropped from the list, Joseph DeBruin, 525 W. Fifth street, and Aloys Becker, 311 S. Locust street, had papers in circulation for third ward alderman.

Joseph Kox, city treasurer, and George Peotter, city assessor, are unopposed for reelection to their jobs.

Harry P. Hoefel, incumbent city attorney, filed papers for reelection and will be opposed in the primary by Oscar Schmiede, 931 W. Loran street, and William J. Flatley, 131 S. Oneida street.

Papers also were filed for two candidates seeking the city engineer's post. A. J. Lyle, Jr., 627 S. Miller street, and Alfred Wickesberg, 402 S. State street, Lloyd M. Schindler, incumbent, filed papers Monday.

Harvey Kuttner, 1403 N. Clark street, a former alderman, filed papers and will oppose R. H. Kubitz, incumbent, in the April election. No other candidates filed for the office.

The only woman seeking office in the city this year, Margaret E. St. Clair, 702 S. State street, filed papers for a position on the board of education. Both incumbents whose terms expire have filed papers.

Drawings for positions on the ballot in the primary election were being held this afternoon in city hall.

Gardner Dam Affairs Studied at Camping Committee Meeting

The personnel at Gardner Dam this summer, improvements to the camp grounds, and the annual camp folder were topics discussed at a meeting of the camp promotion committee of the valley council last night in Hotel Northern.

William E. Schubert, chairman, presented the annual camping report which included facts on the recently completed Camp Willis H. Mower. Plans for the drilling of a well at Mower camp were set in motion at the meeting.

Clarence Zachow, Clintonville, was appointed to supervise the construction of a trout rearing pond at Gardner Dam and Dr. Victor F. Marshall to equip the camp hospital. J. H. Dunham was assigned to setting up a project for improvement to the lodge at Gardner Dam.

Begin Formation of Minimum Coal Prices

Washington—(P)—The bituminous coal commission began formulating new minimum coal prices today, even before an order scrapping the old ones went into effect.

The commission decided yesterday to revoke its present price orders, effective Friday at midnight. Federal courts already have suspended the prices as far as they affect most of the railroads and some of the country's major industrial firms.

The railroads and industrial firms contended—and the courts agreed—that the commission had fixed its minimum prices illegally in failing to hold a public hearing on the proposals.

San Francisco Police Hunting for Man With 'Narcotic' Kiss as Bigamist

San Francisco—(P)—A man, with a "narcotic" kiss was being hunted today by San Francisco police on charges of grand theft and bigamy.

Police Inspector Charles Iredale said the man, Jesse Mowery, 37, served a term in Washington state penitentiary for bigamy.

In swearing to a complaint before Municipal Judge Frank W. Dunn yesterday Mrs. Vivian Mowery, 32, and Mrs. Laura Mowery, 41, asserted "their" husband's kisses left them slaves to his slightest wishes.

Inspector Iredale said Mrs. Laura Mowery told him she believed he administered some sort of narcotic through his caresses.

"All I know," he quoted her as saying, "is that it acted with terrifying speed and power. Almost at once, I would become weak, my knees would tremble. I would have strange desires and seem to be hypnotized. It always left me sick and in a highly nervous state."

Mrs. Vivian Mowery agreed, "His kisses were powerful," she said. "They seemed to drug me with a strange sensation and left me with a peculiar feeling long after he had given them."

Mrs. Laura Mowery told Judge Dunn that Mowery took $2,000 from her before deserting her in Webster, N. Y., a few months after he married her in Yuma, Ariz., a year ago.

Mrs. Vivian Mowery said she married Mowery in Ogden, Utah, in 1936. She said he induced her to sell her restaurant business and give him the $3,000 proceeds. He then borrowed her automobile and departed.

Priest, 13 Others Facing U. S. Trial On Lottery Charges

Pittsburgh—(P)—Father James R. Cox, pastor of historic old St. Patrick church where as many as 3,000 persons were fed daily during the depression, today faced trial in federal court with 13 others on charges of conspiracy and use of the mails in furtherance of a lottery.

The charges resulted from a "garden stakes" contest to choose a name for the church's monastery gardens. The contest was operated as a benefit for the St. Patrick's relief fund.

The priest, who once led a hunger march on Washington, stated several months ago at the time the information was issued that he had been assured the contest was legal and defended it as a charity venture. He and the others were indicted late yesterday.

United States attorneys named two of the defendants, B. J. Clifford of Cleveland, and Thomas A. Harkins of Pasadena, Calif., as promoters of the contest, but Federal Judge Nelson McVicar ordered the indictment impounded and the names of the others withheld until their arrest.

The attorneys explained that under terms of the contest participants paid $1 for a ticket, a medal blessed by Father Cox and the privilege of suggesting a name for the monastery gardens. Those who submitted names adjudged best were to divide prize money.

Dollar Day Brings Hosts of Shoppers

Pleasant Weather Aids Crowds in Appleton Business District

With sunshine and blue skies overhead and excellent bargains in Appleton stores, thousands of shoppers invaded the city's business district today for the annual winter dollar day.

Merchants reported this afternoon that crowds were exceptionally large and the dollar day bargains well received. There are 68 stores cooperating in the event sponsored by the retail division of the chamber of commerce.

One merchant described the crowds as "the best ever" and another said, "We couldn't expect any better response." All merchants contacted were enthusiastic over today's buying volume.

The day brought displays of new spring merchandise shown for the first time in the city, weeks ahead of its usual introduction. The "dollar" "play" ball with the merchants, producing one of the winter's most pleasant days.

Schedule Hearing on C. O. D. Shipments

Madison—(P)—The Public Service commission took steps today to correct what it said were faulty practices of truckers in handling "collect on delivery" shipments.

It has proposed a set of rules and will hold a hearing in Madison March 8 before putting the regulations into effect.

The rules require commission approval for handling C.O.D. shipments and provide that remittance be made to the shipper not more than 10 days after collection. Another provision is that C.O.D. collections be kept in a separate fund.

Estimate $70,000 Loss As Liquor Store Burns

Ann Arbor, Mich.—(P)—Thousands of dollars worth of liquor went up in flames this morning when fire destroyed a state liquor store in Ann Arbor's business district.

Derwood Prochnow, manager, said 35,000 bottles of liquor on the shelves had a value of between $40,000 and $50,000.

The first floor fell through, dumping the liquor supply into the basement. Heat from the alcohol-fed flames made fire-fighting difficult. Firemen said the two-story brick building was valued at approximately $20,000.

Renew Waupaca County Permit to Remove Marl

War Cannot be Made Substitute for Solution of U. S. Problems, Phil Says

Manitowoc—(P)—Warning that America must not turn to war as a substitute for "solving its problems at home," Governor Philip LaFollette told a Manitowoc safety school audience last night that this country can best serve the world by "solving the problems of the machine age and remaining true to liberty."

Citing economies of a scarcity as the basic cause for oppression and dictatorship, the governor said democracy in America can be preserved by bringing national compulsion up to the level of the capacity of the producing system.

Danger of Dictatorship
"There is no better index of how democracy is being won or lost than the rise or fall of the standard of living," Governor LaFollette said. "When supplies run low there is danger of dictatorship. Danger of dictatorship we can avoid by straightening out our economic machine. The test of democracy is whether we are producing more real wealth at the end of each year than the year before."

Attending a meeting of the Manitowoc county LaFollette club following the safety session last night, Governor LaFollette was formally petitioned to seek reelection on the Progressive ticket next fall.

In a resolution the club said LaFollette "... has fearlessly and understandingly met the challenge of ... the serious social and economic problems confronting our people and our government." LaFollette, in accepting the petition, made no comment on his plans for the coming campaign.

That a Little Chute man is looking about for someone to teach him a few things about cooking since an incident yesterday that has been hit in the eyes of his family. It seems that his wife left the house while baking some bread in the oven and that before going she instructed him to open the oven, turn the bread around and then put it back in order to have it even crust on it. When Mrs. returned she found that instead of turning the bread around, her husband had turned the bread upside down.

Ways of Teaching Democracy Studied At Faculty Meeting

A forum discussion on American democracy and how it should be taught in the high school was conducted at a meeting of the Appleton High school faculty yesterday.

Various phases of the problem were considered by teachers. An authority, quoted during the discussion, stated that teaching democracy embraces seven definite objectives which should be reached with each student.

Problems covered in the forum included the kind of citizens needed to maintain a democracy, the function of schools in a democracy, political problems facing the nation today, whether citizens are prepared to face these problems, citizenship training in elementary schools, responsibility of the home in relation to democracy and contributions a college can give.

It was brought out in the discussion that "democracy has not yet been achieved but is still thought to be an ideal worth fighting for."

It is licensed by and under the supervision of the Director of Insurance, who is required by law to make examinations of the Company and see that it maintains the necessary statutory reserves for the protection of policyholders no matter where they may live.

The direct mail plan makes it possible for the Company to offer the maximum accident and sickness insurance protection for the least possible cost. Over 70,000 men and women now enjoy Sterling protection and the many hundreds of unsolicited letters in the files of the Company testify to the fairness and promptness with which Sterling meets its claims. No insurance man in Appleton or elsewhere can give you a policy containing the liberal benefits of a Sterling Sick and Accident Policy for as low a cost.

Party Heads Plan For 1938 Campaign

Progressive Committee Meets With LaFollette To Map Policies

Madison—(P)—Sixty members of the Progressive party's state central committee met with Governor LaFollette at a luncheon in the executive office today to start "warming up" for the 1938 election campaign.

The meeting was held behind closed doors and the only information officials would give out was that party policies were considered and that plans were made to get local committees organized for the campaign.

Nothing was mentioned as to whether Governor LaFollette discussed his part in the campaign. The governor has been mentioned by high party officials as likely to run for a fourth term but there also has been much conjecture as to whether he will be a candidate for the United States senate.

The meeting was the first of a series to be held between now and June. It was understood the governor had several questions he wished the central committee to consider but the nature of the questions was not disclosed.

Before the session started Patrick J. Delaney, who was a Democratic candidate for United States senator in Minnesota in 1926 conferred with the governor. A friend who accompanied Delaney said the political situation in Minnesota was discussed.

President's Plan To Write for Pay Stirs Discussion

Raise Question of Propriety on Sale of Literary Work to Newspapers

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—President Roosevelt's decision to accept money personally for writing for the newspapers has stirred up more discussion here about the propriety of the presidential office than anything in recent years.

Mr. Roosevelt has every legal right to become a columnist, or to sell his literary work to the newspapers. He has heretofore written books which have been sold to the public and there is no essential difference between the two channels so far as the sale of one's literary output is concerned.

Heretofore, presidents usually have waited till they left office before writing for newspapers or magazines on a professional basis, and opinions have differed even among ex-presidents about it.

Woodrow Wilson, for example, wrote only one brief magazine article after he left office and refused to become a syndicated columnist. Calvin Coolidge, on the other hand, sold his comments through a newspaper syndicate. Herbert Hoover, our only living ex-president, has some rather high ideals about the presidential office and its association with an ex-president.

Several months ago a newspaper syndicate wrote to him with an idea of offering a lucrative contract. He replied as follows:

"I have long had the feeling that the task of the columnist should be left to professional writers who must earn their living thereby. They do it effectively and it seems to me it is hardly fair competition for people like myself. If we have anything to say that is of value, we can usually reach the country through the news columns in general without trespassing on the profession of others."

Former President Theodore Roosevelt became a contributor of letters to a weekly magazine as well as a syndicated columnist after leaving the White House, but it is not believed that there is another case on record of a president of the United States engaging while in office in any money-making activities directly related to his office as chief executive.

Certainly, there is nothing illegal about it, and the question of what is ethical or proper is a matter of opinion varying with observers. The idea itself of a president writing for newspapers on what goes on behind the scenes is not wrong. Mr. Roosevelt has every jurisdiction for selecting any business or profession he likes and it seems to grant the idea that it is right for a president to make money in ways that are related to the office which he occupies.

Congressmen Write
Members of congress frequently accept money for lecturing and for the writing of magazine articles, so it is hardly to be wondered at on the theory that Mr. Roosevelt is an elected officer and should give his whole time to the job for which he draws a big salary. The objection will come on the ground that many people believe a president of the United States should not engage directly or indirectly in any business whatsoever while he is serving in the highest office in the land.

For it is right to have a president engage in money-making activities, it would be right for Mr. Roosevelt to appear on a sponsored radio program and accept money for fireside talks. Or it would be equally right for him to allow his name to be used for a fee on testimonial advertising certain products in preference to others. There are many concerns which would give plenty of money to be permitted to say in advertisements what cigarettes the president smokes or what kind of razor he uses. Maybe these are innocent and legitimate ways to make money, but a large segment of the American people would think them improper if a president really commercialized his office for private gain.

Shows Inconsistency
Mr. Roosevelt's willingness to accept money from newspapers when he has denounced them, and by inaction, has given praise to the radio and the movies is somewhat of a surprise, but inconsistency has become a virtue hereabouts, so it is quite possible Mr. Roosevelt thinks it is all right now and that maybe newspapers are not so bad after all. Just why a president of the United States should want to make any more money than his salary of $75,000 a year, which is supplemented by free automobiles, an allowance for travelling and official entertainment and free servants, all of which costs the taxpayers something around $200,000, is a bit difficult to understand. But it is something hardly to be condemned in this instance because it means that the profit motive is rising in Mr. Roosevelt's psychology today, whereas only a few months ago, the Tugwells and the other brain trusters were talking glibly to him about the "service motive" and the need for curbing and restraining, if not eliminating altogether, the course of the profit motive.

Mr. Roosevelt fortunately has the purse to engage in money-making. So do millions of other citizens, and

Prepare War Materials for Washington Cheese Battle

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent War Correspondent
At the Cheese War Front—Men at the front of the mortal combat between Wisconsin cheese and New York cheese were heartened today by news reaching here that the people back home are backing them to the limit, cheering them on to victory and preparing the war materials.

Senator F. Ryan Duffy, commanding general of the Democratic senate, received and read to the senate the following telegram from George L. Mooney, secretary of the National Cheese Institute at Plymouth:

"Letters received. Am selecting an assortment of cheese heroic in proportion, exquisite in palatability, infinite in variety. Wisconsin's contribution to the divinites of diet. Plans will be completed for March second."

"Men working overtime boring holes in Swiss, aromatic limburger demanding recognition, Wisconsin longhorns deny Texan nativity, the majestic cheddar having difficulty in the impartial selection of the lucky Wisconsin twins, daisies and young Americas who will accompany him."

"Brick claims we cannot build without it, while modest muenster, edam, brie, liederkranz and parmesan promise to satisfy the most fastidious gourmet."

"If Senator Barkley raises point of order, limburger will speak for itself. Letter follows."

March 2 Is the Day
March 2, which has previously gone down in history as the day upon which Texas declared her independence from Mexico, is the day upon which Duffy, with the aid of the cheese institute and the Wisconsin department of agriculture and markets, will serve cheese to all kinds of Wisconsin cheeses—to all and sundry who eat in the senate restaurants—the restaurant for the members of the press and the senate staff, the restaurant for the general public which collects itself around senate meetings, the private restaurant in which only senators and their guests are served, and the double-private restaurant which is strictly reserved for senators only—and male senators.

Mooney's reference to "Barkley" harks back to Senator Alben W. Barkley's simulated consternation when Duffy said there would be limburger cheese from Wisconsin on March 2. Barkley, who is majority leader of the senate and who recently went to Fond du Lac to praise Duffy in his own melodious oratorical manner, asked Duffy if he did not know that the constitution says one house of congress may not recess for more than three days without consent of the other house. The capitol's air-conditioning system is not yet in operation.

Duffy, in addition to serving samples of Wisconsin cheeses, is also planning an exhibit of Wisconsin's prowess in cheese-making.

LaFollette Standing at Crossroads Which Point To Senate or Fourth Term

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Behind a polished mahogany desk in a spacious state capitol office today sits a small, personable young man, his hair prematurely gray. Still showing the effects of serious influenza attack last fall, he nevertheless displays plenty of that nervous energy and dynamic personality which has been the cause of amazement for his friends, and dismay for his enemies in the last four state political campaigns, through three state administrations.

Far more successful at 40 than most men in political life hope to be at 70, this young man has a hand-shake acquaintance with voters in every city ward in the state, in every village, and in even the most remote rural settlements.

Son of a distinguished family, head of an efficient state political organization, boomed by friends and admirers as a future president, his name is a by-word in national politics, that man today stands at the cross-roads of his career.

Must Make Decision
That man is Philip Fox LaFollette, governor of Wisconsin. In his case as in his father's, a capacity for leadership and action has divided his constituents into two attitudes. The Wisconsin voter during three LaFollette state administrations has been either for or against.

Today Philip LaFollette realizes the necessity of making a decision which will be an important influence in determining his future career.

There are two alternatives, both political, for 40 years of recent Wisconsin history have shown that the political arena is irresistible to a LaFollette.

The governor may choose either to become the first man in Wisconsin's political history to seek the office of governor for a fourth term, or he may decide to be a candidate for the United States senate.

Both American political biographies show, would ordinarily be good steps on the way up to the White House.

The event of a national third party, the fourth term governor of a midwestern state would be immediately available for the presidential nomination.

Third Party In Doubt
But—and this is probably in Governor LaFollette's mind as it is in the minds of many of his friends—the enthusiastic talk by American radicals for the formation of a national third party, talk which has been more or less prominent since the first blow of the depression in 1929, has in February, 1938, produced exactly nothing.

Some of his closest friends and advisors, and very likely the governor himself, have also become convinced that speculation abroad a few months ago on the adoption of the LaFollettes by the New Deal Democratic organization, and a voting for LaFollette by the Roosevelt party, is now too remote for practical consideration.

So if Wisconsin's governor runs for a fourth term, what is open to him in 1940? For not even the most fervid Progressives hope to be able to maintain a single person in the gubernatorial chair indefinitely. In some quarters there is a very real feeling already that a fourth term will be difficult to obtain in the face of a 100-year precedent.

Second Road Open
There is a second road open to the man whom small-time politicians and rank and file Progressives are fond of addressing as "Phil" on visits to the statehouse.

Wisconsin in November will elect someone to the United States senate for a six-year term. LaFollette's six-year term ends this year.

That alternative has its advantages, and its disadvantages. Next to the presidency, and possibly the office of secretary of state, the United States senate has universally been regarded as the choicest position in the gift of the people. Governors look upon it as a promotion; political leaders as a bright ending to their public career. Further, United States senators have been elected to the presidency. And a not inconsiderable attraction is the tenure, a senator sits undisturbed for six years; a governor for only two.

But there are disadvantages, and they are important. A freshman senator in the national political picture is pretty insignificant. Senator Ryan Duffy, for example, in six years at the capital has been unable to raise himself to anything which resembles an influential position in national affairs. Added to that is the fact that Senator Phil would need-

THE LAFOLLETTE AND ROOSEVELT APPROACH

Senator LaFollette has renewed an oft repeated effort to revise the Federal Income Tax Law by extending its base that it may apply to more people, and increasing the taxes upon those in the so called "middle brackets," that is the people who belong to the great middle class.

The Senator's action is by inference a confession that no more load may be added on the rich.

But to us such an action as that proposed by Senator LaFollette has virtues far greater than supplying the treasury with much needed revenue. It will supply the people of this country with some much needed sense. They are still laboring under the delusion that someone else is going to pay for the high time Mr. Roosevelt has been giving the country in financial affairs. It looks as though Senator LaFollette suspects the contrary. But the awful truth will become evident enough some day.

Getting the Federal income tax, which is a tax with teeth, down to where it applies, and sink those teeth, even into an income of $800.00 per annum will be the best means of bringing that awful truth home to the people.

Today, as has been demonstrated in many columns of print, the ordinary day laborer is paying about 12% of his income in the way of a concealed sales tax. But that fact didn't awaken him to the needless wastage in the Roosevelt financial policies. The Administration is aware of this truth. It realizes full well that until the mass of voters appreciate what is actually going out of their pockets to pay for the foibles of our royal family they won't care a great deal so long as the firebrand chiefs keep up their personal interest and the President chases Tories, real or fanciful.

There will be considerable difference of opinion concerning Senator LaFollette's proposal to out-Roosevelt Roosevelt by spending more money than the President.

But there can be no sound objection to the plan sponsored by the Senator to let the people know the truth.

In fact the prime difference between our many sided, volatile and dashing President and the LaFollette record in legislation may be found in this very difference of opinion relating to the income tax laws, the President still playing hide and seek with the country, or at least trying to blindfold it to the miseries it must endure for having listened to his siren song, and LaFollette ever willing to be candid by putting a statement of the expenses on the table in front of the voter.

Thus Mr. Roosevelt remains a butterfly-chasing liberal while Mr. LaFollette continues to be practical.

WOOLING OUR NEIGHBORS

We North Americans are inclined to take the South Americans for granted. We either ignore them, or make a few polite gestures and adopt a genteel term like the "Good Neighbor Policy" and let it go at that. But Old World competitors for the good will of these neighbors take them seriously. A representative of the New York Times has given a vivid report of the way non-American countries labor to advance their commercial and political interests in South America, and the Times comments editorially as follows:

"Through every channel of communication and every conceivable cultural device, Germany and Italy seek to impress the Brazilian people. By generous supplies of literature for the general reader, frequent hand-outs suitable for use in the local and metropolitan press, resident professors, lectures by distinguished visiting scholars, school books, whole educational plans, recitals by well known artists and dramatic productions by celebrated actors—all made available gratis—they win favor with the Brazilians. Spectacular stunts, such as the recent flight of Italian planes across the South Atlantic, in which Bruno Mussolini participated, stir the imagination of the masses. But even the Brazilian elite, which takes pride in the catholicity of its cultural taste, welcomes these advances."

And the German and Italian radio is working on the Brazilians day and night. What wonder if Brazil succumbs to all this Fascist wooing? We scorn to do such things so brazenly, but perhaps we are too reticent and aloof.

WOODSAW FOR GRANDPOP

Hats off and congratulations to T. H. Bowman of Everett, Wash. He celebrated his ninetieth birthday recently with the aid of his twelve children. But he vetoed their suggested present for him.

The "kids"—some of them must be getting on in years themselves—wanted to give Dad an easy chair. He wouldn't allow it. "When you get as old as I am, you need exercise," he said. "Get me a five-foot crosscut saw. I'll do me more good." It might have been a good idea to give him both. An easy chair has its uses, particularly after a spell of exercise with a crosscut saw.

Such happy, hearty, healthy nonagenarians are reassuring. As life-expectancy lengthens and the country's population approaches stabilization, it is pleasant to think that there are fewer old folks who must retire to an easy chair and memories, and more who continue their own activities with satisfaction. The crosscut saw would be too strenuous for many who never used one even in youth, but it is a symbol of a useful and interesting old age.

A LAD OF 16 EARNS "BIG" MONEY

We suppose that nearly every child of sixteen wishes he was Freddie Bartholomew. And probably Freddie wishes he was anyone but himself.

For even at his tender age Freddie has learned that the more one makes quite often the less one has and that how ever the dollars seem to grow around him there are innumerable dollar agriculturists with active working hands always on deck to pluck the sprouting buds.

Freddie has been receiving about $100,000 a year. He has been giving $20,000 of it to his parents. The court has discontinued this payment for the reason that Freddie cannot afford to make it.

In the recent hearing at Los Angeles it was found that Freddie, despite his income, is already in debt to the tune of $98,800. For worthy little actors must have lawyers and there is an attorney fee for $15,000; an agent gets a rake-off too; living expenses go up to about $2,000 a month; and there are disputed items including a quarrel with Uncle Sam over income taxes and another with some other agents who claim they are entitled to about $45,000 for promoting the career of this capable young actor.

His aunt, who is his guardian and business manager, seems modest in only taking $100 a week, whereas Freddie himself is down on the list for but $1 a week spending money.

Thus does Hollywood plunge recklessly along making messes and leaving them without solution, but getting the cream to spray out to the country and burying the ashes somewhere of a dark night. We don't expect that we will stop a single young man from envying Freddie. Young men are not practical and think that publicity and popularity are wonderful things of exhilarating value.

And it is this very weakness in the nature of youth that make war and armies such a success on the face of the earth.

GOLD PROFITS

British financiers are said to be worrying now about $1,000,000,000 worth of gold that is burning a hole in the national pocket. That neat pocket-piece is "concealed in the price of gold." There it is, but the books do not show it, and theoretically it doesn't exist.

It represents the profit made by the government when Britain abandoned the gold standard. The price of gold rose gradually from 85 shillings an ounce to 140 shillings an ounce, which is about the same weight-value as the United States government put on gold when we devalued. But the British government never changed the treasury records to agree with the change in monetary value of that gold. There is a billion dollars' worth of spare gold that is simply not accounted for.

A London authority suggests that the Bank of England could buy $1,000,000,000 worth of government bonds with that value, and burn them—in other words, retire that much of the national debt.

The problem is of interest to Americans because we have about $3,000,000,000 of similar "profit" made by our devaluation of a much larger volume of gold than Britain's. Our government so far has carried this as treasury surplus. It might be used lawfully to retire three billions of our national debt, or perhaps for relief or some other form of expenditure. So far, it obviously helps to prop the national credit.

Opinions Of Others

CONFIDENCE AND THE A. F. OF L.

Nothing more reassuring has appeared in a long time than the statement of the American Federation of Labor urging that Congress repeal or modify the undivided profits and capital gains taxes. It is a clear recognition that so far as the volume of production is concerned labor and capital are in the same boat. What hurts business hurts labor. As the Federation puts it, "even though industry may complain because of curtailed earnings, labor suffers most because of hunger and distress resulting from unemployment."

The reasoning of the Federation is as impressive as its conclusion. Pointing out that representatives of industry as well as expert economists allege that the present situation is largely psychological and is due to a lack of confidence, the Federation's statement continues: "Whether this is true or false, no mistake would be made if those in authority, including the members of Congress, would take steps to restore confidence and create cooperation and understanding between those who own and manage industry, labor and the government." As a step toward this restoration of public confidence, the executive council of the A. F. of L. urges the repeal or modification of the undivided profits and capital gains taxes.

No development could show more clearly how overwhelming the sentiment now is for this action.—New York Times.

REQUEST has come in from a reader, for whom a message later, concerning the whereabouts of Midnight Timothy Ipswich, the extra-black cocker spaniel who holds forth at your correspondent's house. . . . This is a timely request, because I have been rather wanting to discuss Midnight Tim for some little time since he seems to be pretty much unspoiled by publicity. . . . he prefers chopped beef to ink although he is not adverse to chewing up a stray cartoon now and then, even if it does bear printing on it. . . . Anyway, we are going away for the weekend and, not caring much about slithering around on Wisconsin highways, we are going to leave M. Tim at home in charge of a laid down the street and take a train. . . . of course, we could toss him in the baggage car, but Tim is an unpredictable sort of guy and there is no telling whether he would get along in a baggage car very well, or how he would treat the railway men in the car or whether everybody would get peeved about it, including Tim. I am inclined to lean toward the last-mentioned possibility because spaniels are generally skitterish underfoot, and I can imagine nothing more bothersome than to have a cocker spaniel skittering underfoot in a baggage car or to be a cocker spaniel skittering underfoot in a baggage car. . . . besides, I have heard of a cocker who was plenty sore about having been put on a baggage car and who, in retaliation, developed a great love for the baggage man and was reluctant to be parted from him. . . . not only that, but the cocker snubbed the family for several hours as if to indicate: "THEY CAN'T DO THIS TO ME!" . . .

This recalls the incident last year when a lady from Oshkosh who owns a female cocker spaniel decided that she was going to bring the pooch back from Milwaukee by train and that, moreover, the dog was not to ride in the baggage car. And the dog didn't. We met the two of them gaily holding forth in a parlor car smoking compartment and the parlor car attendant looking pretty unhappy about the whole affair. But it takes the supreme confidence and bluffing powers of a woman to get away with something like that (because cocker spaniels are not supposed to ride in parlor cars) and a mere man can't work himself into such a state of mind.

Of course, this deprives M. Tim from a train ride, but I doubt if he will care very much. It also gives him a fine chance to catch up on his sleep. We have been keeping him up late recently and I think he is beginning to resent it.

Only yesterday morning he took a look at me and went back upstairs to bed.

If I weren't such a Robert Taylor, I'd suspect that maybe he wasn't as tired as he was discouraged from looking at me at 7 a.m.

Personal to D.D.: thanks for the letter, thanks much. But I still enjoy printing the contributions.

I HAVE THE CRI

Early this winter I had the CRI. It was the worst that ever cursed. I don't know what it was but I know it made me curl up and go into a coma one day. They tell me I'm the world's worst patient, just because I fail to wax enthusiastic about describing my symptoms and comparing notes on prognosis and trying the remedies suggested by every one who happens to discover I'm out of commission. Now when I'm feeling a bit quailish all in the world I ask of any one who cares at all is to be let alone. Please, please, don't ask how I'm feeling now. I'm feeling worse than you can possibly imagine, for I suffer not only the physical distress that accompanies the indisposition, whatever it may be, but also a dreadful burden on my conscience, for I keep thinking of the hundreds and maybe thousands of times I had ruthlessly aroused a wretch from his blessed lethargy to inquire "Well, old man, how are you feeling now?" There are but three degrees of murder recognized by the law, and none of them quite fulfills the requirements under these circumstances. I have endeavored to save my conscience with the excuse that, altho it is unwarranted for the mere visitor or friend, the attending physician of course has to keep informed on the condition of the patient. But that's no good, for no matter how faint the spark of life becomes I can't help thinking that if the doctor were any good at all he ought to be able to see without asking just what progress the patient is making—and this doesn't help the ache in my conscience.

This recent cri (short for Common Respiratory Infection, pronounced kree) was a Streptococcus infection. It was epidemic. The Streptococcus is notorious for virulence and for its capacity for working havoc without inducing an adequate reaction in the body and hence without inducing enough natural immunity to afford reasonable protection against subsequent attacks. That is why it was the worst cri I have ever had; incidentally it was the first cri I have had for many years. Whether my experience means anything, I don't know, but I believe it pays to keep in mind the fact that CRI spreads ordinarily via conversational spray and the effective range of such spray is less than five feet, no matter whether the specific infection proves to be measles, scarlet fever, pneumonia, bronchitis, diphtheria, whooping cough, infantile paralysis, acute sinusitis, acute cornea or what not. Nobody can tell until the victim has passed the stage of incubation. Meanwhile, if the victim takes seriously the teachings of the grippers holding public health berthe, he can share his incubating illness with as many others as happen to come within his conversational spray range. That is how epidemics occur.

The Golden Rule is a fine rule in intercourse between nations, and a fine rule in hygiene—for the other fellow to follow.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Sun Bathing

It is our experience that sun bathing, complete, leaves one tired and in need of considerable rest after it. What is the explanation for this? (R.H.H. and C.H.H.)

Answer—Perhaps too long exposure. Failure to cover eyes with black mask or dark bandage and protect them from glare. Keep some fresh fruit beverage at hand and take it in the course of the bath.

Myasthenia Gravis
You wrote about myasthenia gravis and described my condition exactly—upper eyelids so tired I can hardly hold my eyes open, and it is a great effort to smile. Have clipped your article to show my doctor. Please tell me what dose of prostigmine is used? (Mrs. D.S.)

Answer—Hypodermic doses of 1-100th grain are used—such a dose gives relief for four or five hours. Doses much larger—1-4 grain to 1-2 grain—by mouth have same effect. First dose should be given by doctor, and subsequent dosage adjusted by him according to effects. It is not a cure, only palliative or temporary relief.

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writers' names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, 265 El Camino, South, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Your Birthday

"PISCES"
If February 25 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:45 to 11:45 a. m.; from 1:45 to 3:45 p. m., and from 7:45 to 9:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:45 to 9:45 a. m.; from 9:45 to 7:45 p. m., and from 9:45 to 11:45 p. m.

Be careful that impatience does not involve you in trouble this day. There may be an urge to do things hurriedly, with the result that, if this inclination is given into they are apt to be badly done. The opportunity to do some good this day, must not be ignored, for many future benefits may be derived therefrom. Social aspirations are apt to be realized this day and a great deal of hospitality accorded by people from whom it is least expected. Intrigue perhaps will rear its ugly head and ought to be avoided as you would a pestilence, for only evil can come from it. Jealousy and greed are liable to influence actions, that might bring about many drastic changes in business and personal affairs. Married and engaged couples, as well as those who are striving to win some person's heart, should be very considerate of each other's feelings this day, because an unusual degree of sensitiveness apparently will exist.

If a woman and February 25 is your birthday, you ought to have great self-control and an unlimited amount of diplomacy. With proper business training it is possible for you to develop much executive ability. A pleasure-loving nature should make you fond of social activities. Your personal magnetism may win the deep affection and lasting loyalty of many friends. You seem to have excellent prospects for many luxuries and a large income. Through a business venture of your own, or as an artist, literary woman, lecturer, entertainer or publicity agent you may become affluent. Your chance of marrying a thoroughly congenial man, capable of making you happy, seems to be very good.

The child born on February 25, will be kind and sympathetic. This youngster's love for a pet ought to entitle it to have one. It ought to become very successful. If a man and February 25 is your natal day, if your faith in your own ability does not make you overconfident and egotistical, your opportunity to make a name and money for yourself ought to be unlimited. Through art, law, medicine, engineering, journalism or acting fame and wealth may come to you.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York—Sometimes while ambling through crowded theatre lobbies or getting off subway trains you hear conversations that bring you to an abrupt halt. Not because they are startling or risqué, but because they provide illuminating insights into well known people. Such was the case this afternoon in a building not far from New York's upper East Side.

As I walked through the lobby the elevator captain jerked his thumb over his shoulder and said: "There goes Kosty now. He's another of those talented Russians who escaped the revolution."

"Who's Kosty?" a thin little man wanted to know.

"Oh, I didn't mean to say 'Kosty,' I meant Mr. Andre Kostelanetz, the musical director." I noticed he corrected that "Kosty" business as if he had committed a sacrilege.

"Well, what's wrong with calling him Kosty?" the little man argued frantically.

"Oh, I wouldn't dare do that, sir, at least not to his face."

"But you just called him Kosty." "It slipped out, sir. That is, sometimes we among ourselves refer to him in the friendly, familiar manner."

"Who was that fellow with him?" "It might have been Mr. Lawrence Tibbett, sir, but I see by the papers that Mr. Tibbett has suffered a rather nasty fall, and so I guess it wasn't Mr. Tibbett."

"Do you ever refer to him as Tib?"

"Oh, no, sir, no indeed; not under any circumstances."

"Well, what made you think it was Tibbett?"

"Because they're on the same cigarette program sir, Mr. Kostelanetz conducts the orchestra; Mr. Tibbett sings. They are very good friends—I believe. I have heard it said that Mr. Kostelanetz much prefers classical music to jazz."

"Well, this Kostelanetz person, is he a right guy?"

"I believe he is very seldom wrong, sir—at least I've never heard anyone contradict him. But then he is here only a couple of days a week. The rest of his time he spends on his estate in Connecticut."

"Listen, in California everyone who owns a 40-foot lot refers to it as a 'ranch.' Is that the way with Connecticut estates?"

"Indeed, no, sir, most of the gentlemen own Connecticut ranches—I mean estates. Mr. Tibbett, Mr. James Melton, Mr. Kostelanetz—it seems to be a favorite state with them, sir."

"And what is this program Pal Kosty conducts?"

"A radio program, sir, for the cigarettes."

"Say, you seem to know a lot about this guy?"

"Indeed I do, sir. You see, I'm his manager, but we had a bet and the fellow who lost was supposed to play elevator operator for a day. I regret to say that his judgment was better than mine."

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—Imagine a city with a council of 531 members to manage its affairs and you get an idea of what a sporting job it is to live and die in this city of the voteless. There are perennial differences between the members of Congress from the provinces who make the city's laws and the local residents and business men of Washington. Off the record it probably is friendly enough, but it is a fact some outlying congressmen are pretty sarcastic in their remarks about local taxpayers.

Washington has no income tax (except the federal), no sales tax, and a primary tax rate that is the basis of prolonged arguments. Congressmen who pay state, county and municipal taxes, not to mention highway district and sewer taxes, simply boil when Washington delegations plead for the federal government to pay a larger share of city expenses.

The federal government buildings occupy a husky share of the better business sites in the district and pay no taxes. Long years ago an agreement was reached where by the federal government was to kick in 40 per cent of the city budget, leaving the city to raise the balance by the useful tax systems.

But as the years rolled along Congress began nipping off its end, and now the federal government pays only about 10 per cent of a budget of some $5,000,000 annually. Congress fixes the amount of the budget after hearings and consultations with a local town board, but if the residents don't like it they have to take it anyway. They can't vote Congress out of office.

Tax Trouble

At various times suggestions have been made for income taxes to ease the load now borne mostly by property owners, but that idea has bogged down. An income tax won't hit members of Congress, since they could not keep a very straight face while they voted themselves exemptions. Last session they shouted down such a tax. This year a new proposal was advanced to require congressmen to pay income taxes based on the amount of time they spent here. That also was out.

District taxpayers are a bit hot under the collar about that since the congressmen don't pay income taxes in their home states either on their federal salaries.

Last year Congress lacked a business privilege tax on local merchants. The merchants could not very well pass it directly on to the consumers, so now there is pressure to replace it with a sales tax which the consumers would pay.

But congressmen, in voting taxes for the district, have to keep their shirts clean. Sales taxes are not popular out in the states, and the members don't want to be caught voting for one for the District.

Crime Trouble

Fight at the moment Washington is having a sort of crime wave, with robberies and burglaries reported by hands full. We have that on the authority of several high officials, including congressmen. Also there is a congressional campaign to "clean up the racket," since the numbers game has obtained a stout foothold among the colored one-third of the city's population.

Congressmen cry on the one hand for the District to produce a "Dewey," like New York's to rid the city of the numbers rackets, and the District citizens cry for the vote so they can elect their own law enforcement agencies. In fact they demand more money from the government to pay policemen. The present officers, the District insists spend much of their time policing streets where the President is to drive, or in herding the protest marchers who are forever moving on the city.

Another congressman retort that Washington has a billion dollar industry with a steady payroll where the workers never strike, and what more could a city want?

Gambling Manager Tells Pegler Dice are Dishonest

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

Kansas City—In the course of this pleasant visit to Kansas City, where the blackjack dealers sit at his kidney-shaped table flipping cards to the clients in plain view of the public and the law, gamblers suffer much from the cynicism of those who like to think the worst.

I gave expression to a little doubt one recent evening while visiting a resort called the State Line tavern, a dance hall, bar and gambling house down in the cattle and railroad yards which straddles the line between wanton Missouri and bleeding Kansas, with mischief and mirth on the Missouri side and nothing but morality and space in the few square feet where Kansas is.

There is some sort of law in process against the management at this writing on the claim of a Kansas authority that some clients of the tavern were crowded over the line one busy night when a goodly throng was there and were caught feloniously casting dice on forbidden ground. A survey is being made and ere the thing is settled Missouri and Kansas may resort to arms again, as of old, to make war over a boundary.

The manager had turned over to an assistant the stick or crook with which the cubes are retrieved from where they fall and was explaining with gracious patience what folly it would be for a casino with a steady, high class trade like his to permit any tricks of magic with the cubes or cards.

The clientele, incidentally, was composed in the main of men in overalls or other hardy apparel and seemed to be railroad laborers and freighters employed on the interstate truck lines. Some were scuffling around in the stately measures of the squirm with spotty and bedraggled ladies to whom no formal introduction seemed necessary, but most were hanging around the crap-tables, and none, be it said to the credit of their intelligence, were playing the bird cage.

Incidentally, it is very bad form to refer to the stickman's stick as a crook—a word as shocking in the State Line tavern and similar resorts as the word bloody in an English drawing room.

Manager Says Loaded Dice Are Forbidden

Loaded dice, the manager declared, and all other deceptions are positively forbidden in his pastimes and for proof he proudly displayed a franchise which said that E. A. Gould, the exclusive purveyor of dice to the State Line tavern, upon thorough investigation of the proprietor's character and the ethical standards of his place, had been pleased to confer this honor.

"This certifies," the document read, "that the State Line tavern have complied with all the requirements necessary to receive this franchise, which is subject to withdrawal for cause at any time without notice. One thousand dollars will be paid to anyone who can prove that any dice bearing the signature of E. A. Gould are not perfect, trued dice."

It bore a gold seal with two red ribbons and the personal signature of Mr. Gould himself, a leading member of the gambling tool business, who is fighting to command for the game of craps, more truly than baseball, the American national game, the public respect and confidence which have been sacrificed to scurrilous innuendo and hearsay. He has composed a brochure, in which he declares that "any club displaying his franchise may be patronized with full confidence that the character and integrity of the men in charge have been investigated and approved by E. A. Gould, Deek for Blackjack.

It was a reassuring lesson, but my confidence backslid somewhat next day when I learned that a friend had fished from a blackjack dealer, to whom he lost $20, a deck of cards whose back design contained a subtle variation to distinguish the cards below No. 8 from those above.

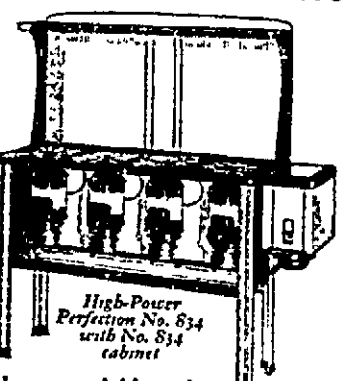

Could this have been a slip of the printing press do you suppose? Because my friend insists that, dealing blackjack with this deck, he has a valuable clue to the size of his opponent's hole-card and a potent advantage in deciding how much he has to bet himself.

Perhaps it was a mechanical error, but if so, how would you account for a curious operation observed at a factory where a young salesman inadvertently led the way into a room marked "positively employees only" where a young woman with deft, sure fingers was busy making certain red ink marks on the back designs of hundreds of new red-backed playing cards?

I asked the young woman what these marks were for, but she only giggled and wouldn't say, and the best I can do is hope that she was just touching them up for aesthetic reasons. I appeal to Mr. Gould as defender of a long-suffering trade.

Green Bay Man to Head State Furniture Dealers

Milwaukee — (U)—Arthur Schumacher, Green Bay, was elected president of the Wisconsin Retail Furniture Dealers' association at a convention meeting here Tuesday.

The association named George Walter, Jr., vice president; Theodore Siedel, Milwaukee, secretary; treasurer; and Joseph Pfankuch, Menomonee, Mich., and Oscar Lange, Marshfield, Wis., directors. Concluding their convention, the dealers adopted a resolution seeking to prohibit the sale of prison-made wall goods, wares or merchandise on the open market in Wisconsin.

Hours were spent in the dentist's chair, having those matters adjusted. I hope the dentist enjoyed it. I didn't.

"Everybody is very nice. I'm sure I shall like Hollywood—especially when I get to see it. Last week-end I thought I'd get acquainted with the town and surrounding country. Bought a little car and set out for a drive. I was driving behind a long string of cars, when suddenly the leading car stopped. So did the next, and the next and the next in front of me. I kept on going. I am hopeful the repair bill will not be excessive. Also, I still hope to see the country—some day.

"Au revoir. A gentleman is approaching, and I have the feeling I am about to be whisked somewhere again. I have been too bewildered to be bewildered, but am enjoying it. I hope you'll watch for the picture. Unless they change the title, it'll be 'Four Men And A Prayer.' Whatever is on the screen opposite Loretta Young is what Hollywood has done to

"There I began meeting people. I remember six hours being fitted for wardrobe. Then tests. Make-up tests, camera tests, sound tests. Gentlemen who took charge of my face, experimenting with grease-paints, barbers who took charge of my hair, testing various hair-lines.

"And I mustn't neglect the dentist. Four hours on arrival were devoted to discovering that my teeth, which have served me satisfactorily most of my 24 years, were not quite up to Hollywood's standards. The discovery itself was made in short order. The four

IT'S ODD But It's Science

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

Ithaca, N. Y. — A yellow cake of sulphur about the size of a piece of soap lies on the desk of George F. MacLeod, assistant professor of entomology at Cornell university.

The sulphur ticks like a watch. It has been ticking for four years. That is ever since the Texas Gulf Sulphur Company gave it to Dr. MacLeod to see whether he could find out new things about sulphur. The cake has to be placed to your ear to hear the ticking. The sounds are a little irregular. They make you think of a watch having difficulty to get going; of the sound of ice cracking on a night of intense, clear, still cold.

Why this sulphur ticks Dr. MacLeod has not been able to learn. It probably is due to drying, he says. The cake loses a fraction of 1 per cent of its weight in a year.

But Dr. MacLeod has discovered

several new uses for sulphur. It is not a poison. Yet it finds it will do the work of a poison in a different and very effective way. The yellow powder will keep various kinds of insects pests away from the crops

THE LAFOLLETTE AND ROOSEVELT APPROACH

Senator LaFollette has renewed an oft repeated effort to revise the Federal Income Tax Law by extending its base that it may apply to more people, and increasing the taxes upon those in the so called "middle brackets," that is the people who belong to the great middle class.

The Senator's action is by inference a confession that no more load may be added on the rich.

But to us such an action as that proposed by Senator LaFollette has virtues far greater than supplying the treasury with much needed revenue. It will supply the people of this country with some much needed sense. They are still laboring under the delusion that someone else is going to pay for the high time Mr. Roosevelt has been giving the country in financial affairs. It looks as though Senator LaFollette suspects the contrary. But the awful truth will become evident enough some day.

Getting the Federal income tax, which is a tax with teeth,—down to where it applies, and sink those teeth, even into an income of $800.00 per annum will be the best means of bringing that awful truth home to the people.

Today, as has been demonstrated in many columns of print, the ordinary day laborer is paying about 12% of his income in the way of a concealed sales tax. But that fact didn't awaken him to the needless wastage in the Roosevelt financial policies. The Administration is aware of this truth. It realizes full well that until the mass of voters appreciate what is actually going out of their pockets to pay for the foibles of our royal family they won't care a great deal so long as the fireside chats keep up their personal interest and the President chases Tories, real or fanciful.

There will be considerable difference of opinion concerning Senator LaFollette's proposal to out-Roosevelt Roosevelt by spending more money than the President. But there can be no sound objection to the plan sponsored by the Senator to let the people know the truth.

In fact the prime difference between our many sided, volatile and dashing President and the LaFollette record in legislation may be found in this very difference of opinion relating to the income tax laws, the President still playing hide and seek with the country, or at least trying to blindfold it to the miseries it must endure for having listened to his siren song, and LaFollette ever willing to be candid by putting a statement of the expenses on the table in front of the voter.

Thus Mr. Roosevelt remains a butterfly-chasing liberal while Mr. LaFollette continues to be practical.

WOOLING OUR NEIGHBORS

We North Americans are inclined to take the South Americans for granted. We either ignore them, or make a few polite gestures and adopt a genteel term like the "Good Neighbor Policy" and let it go at that. But Old World competitors for the good will of these neighbors take them seriously. A representative of the New York Times has given a vivid report of the way non-American countries labor to advance their commercial and political interests in South America, and the Times comments editorially as follows:

"Through every channel of communication and every conceivable cultural device, Germany and Italy seek to impress the Brazilian people. By generous supplies of literature for the general reader, frequent 'hand-outs' suitable for use in the local and metropolitan press, resident professors, lecturers by distinguished visiting scholars, school books, whole educational plans, recitals by well known artists and dramatic productions by celebrated actors—all made available gratis—they win favor with the Brazilians. Spectacular stunts, such as the recent flight of Italian planes across the South Atlantic, in which Bruno Mussolini participated, stir the imagination of the masses. But even the Brazilian elite, which takes pride in the catholicity of its cultural taste, welcomes these advances."

And the German and Italian radio is working on the Brazilians day and night.

What wonder if Brazil succumbs to all this Fascist wooing? We scorn to do such things so brazenly, but perhaps we are too reticent and aloof.

WOODSAW FOR GRANDPOP

Hats off and congratulations to T. H. Bowman of Everett, Wash. He celebrated his ninetieth birthday recently with the aid of his twelve children. But he vetoed their suggested present for him.

The "kids"—some of them must be getting on in years themselves—wanted to give Dad an easy chair. He wouldn't allow it. "When you get as old as I am, you need exercise," he said. "Get me a five-foot crosscut saw. I'll do me more good." It might have been a good idea to give him both. An easy chair has its uses, particularly after a spell of exercise with a crosscut saw.

Such happy, hearty, healthy nonagenarians are reassuring. As life-expectancy lengthens and the country's population approaches stabilization, it is pleasant to think that there are fewer old folks who must retire to an easy chair and memories, and more who continue their own activities with satisfaction. The crosscut saw would be too strenuous for many who never used one even in youth, but it is a symbol of a useful and interesting old age.

A LAD OF 16 EARNS "BIG" MONEY

We suppose that nearly every child of sixteen wishes he was Freddie Bartholomew. And probably Freddie wishes he was anyone but himself.

For even at his tender age Freddie has learned that the more one makes quite often the less one has and that how ever the dollars seem to grow around him there are innumerable dollar agriculturists with active working hands always on deck to pluck the sprouting buds.

Freddie has been receiving about $100,000 a year. He has been giving $20,000 of it to his parents. The court has discontinued this payment for the reason that Freddie cannot afford to make it.

In the recent hearing at Los Angeles it was found that Freddie, despite his income, is already in debt to the tune of $98,800. For worthy little actors must have lawyers and there is an attorney fee for $15,000; an agent gets a rake-off too; living expenses go up to about $2,000 a month; and there are disputed items including a quarrel with Uncle Sam over income taxes and another with some other agents who claim they are entitled to about $45,000 for promoting the career of this capable young actor.

His aunt, who is his guardian and business manager, seems modest in only taking $100 a week, whereas Freddie himself is down on the list for but $1 a week spending money.

Thus does Hollywood plunge recklessly along making messes and leaving them without solution, but getting the cream to spray out to the country and burying the ashes somewhere of a dark night.

We don't expect that we will stop a single young man from envying Freddie. Young men are not practical and think that publicity and popularity are wonderful things of exhilarating value.

And it is this very weakness in the nature of youth that make war and armies such a success on the face of the earth.

GOLD PROFITS

British financiers are said to be worrying now about $1,000,000,000 worth of gold that is burning a hole in the national pocket. That neat pocket-piece is "concealed in the price of gold." There it is, but the books do not show it, and theoretically it doesn't exist.

It represents the profit made by the government when Britain abandoned the gold standard. The price of gold rose gradually from 85 shillings an ounce to 140 shillings an ounce, which is about the same weight-value as the United States government put on gold when we devalued. But the British government never changed the treasury records to agree with the change in monetary value of that gold. There is a billion dollars' worth of spare gold that is simply not accounted for.

A London authority suggests that the Bank of England could buy $1,000,000,000 worth of government bonds with that value, and burn them—in other words, retire that much of the national debt.

The problem is of interest to Americans because we have about $3,000,000,000 of similar "profit" made by our devaluation of a much larger volume of gold than Britain's. Our government so far has carried this as treasury surplus. It might be used lawfully to retire three billions of our national debt, or perhaps for relief or some other form of expenditure. So far, it obviously helps to prop the national credit.

Opinions Of Others

CONFIDENCE AND THE A. F. OF L.

Nothing more reassuring has appeared in a long time than the statement of the American Federation of Labor urging that congress repeal or modify the undivided profits and capital gains taxes. It is a clear recognition that so far as the volume of production is concerned labor and capital are in the same boat. What hurts business hurts labor. As the Federation puts it, "even though industry may complain because of curtailed earnings, labor suffers most because of hunger and distress resulting from unemployment."

The reasoning of the Federation is as impressive as its conclusion. Pointing out that representatives of industry as well as expert economists allege that the present situation is largely psychological and is due to a lack of confidence, the Federation's statement continues: "Whether this is true or false, no mistake would be made if those in authority, including the members of congress, would take steps to restore confidence and create cooperation and understanding between those who own and manage industry, labor and the government." As a step toward this restoration of public confidence, the executive council of the A. F. of L. urges the repeal or modification of the undistributed profits and capital gains taxes.

No development could show more clearly how overwhelming the sentiment now is for this action.—New York Times.

APPLETON POST-CRESCENT

REQUEST has come in from a reader, for whom a message later, concerning the whereabouts of Midnight Timothy Ipswich, the extra-black cocker spaniel who holds forth at your correspondent's house. . . . this is a timely request, because I have been rather wanting to discuss Midnight Tim for some little time since he seems to be pretty much unspoiled by publicity. . . . he prefers chopped beef to ink although he is not averse to chewing up a stray cartoon now and then, even if it does bear printing on it. . . . anyway, we are going away for the weekend and, not caring much about slithering around on Wisconsin highways, we are going to leave Mr. Tim at home in charge of a lad down the street and take a train. . . . of course, we could lose him in the baggage car, but Tim is an unpredictable sort of guy and there is no telling whether he would get along in a baggage car very well, or how he would treat the railway men in the car or whether everybody would get peeved about it, including Tim. . . . I am inclined to lean toward the last-mentioned possibility because spaniels are generally skittish underfoot, and I can imagine nothing more bothersome than to have a cocker spaniel skittering underfoot in a baggage car. . . . besides, I have heard of a cocker who was plenty sore about having been put on a baggage car and who, in retaliation, developed a great love for the baggage man and was reluctant to be parted from him. . . . not only that, but the cocker snubbed the family for several hours as if to indicate: "THEY CAN'T DO THIS TO ME!" . . .

This recalls the incident last year when a lady from Oshkosh who owns a female cocker spaniel decided that she was going to bring the poor back from Milwaukee by train and that, moreover, the dog was not to ride in the baggage car. And the dog didn't. We met the two of them going forth in a parlor car smoking compartment and the parlor car attendant looking pretty unhappy about the whole affair. But it takes the supreme confidence and bluffing powers of a woman to get away with something like that (because cocker spaniels are not supposed to ride in parlor cars) and a mere man can't work himself into such a state of mind.

Of course, this deprives M. Tim from a train ride, but I doubt if he will care very much. It also gives him a fine chance to catch up on his sleep. We have been keeping him up late recently and I think he is beginning to resent it.

Only yesterday morning he took a look at me and went back upstairs to bed.

If I weren't such a Robert Taylor, I'd suspect that maybe he wasn't as tired as he was discouraged from looking at me at 7 a.m.

A LAMPLIT ROOM

Out of the storm into a lamplit room
I come, and lock the door against the night.
Here is security against the boom
Of rising sea, and the harsh wind's affright.
I think that going from a life's distress
Into high heaven must be like this hour!
Only a lamplit room, where happiness
And sweet companionship bursts into flower!

I HAVE THE CRI

Early this winter I had the CRI. It was the worst that ever cursed. I don't know what it was but I know it made me curl up and go into a coma one day. They tell me I'm the world's worst patient, just because I fail to wax enthusiastic about describing my symptoms and comparing notes on prognosis and trying the remedies suggested by every one who happens to discover I'm out of commission. Now when I'm feeling a bit qualmish all in the world I ask of any one who cures at all is to be let alone. Please, please, don't ask how I'm feeling now. I'm feeling worse than you can possibly imagine, for I suffer not only the physical distress that accompanies the indisposition, whatever it may be, but also a dreadful burden on my conscience, for I keep thinking of the hundreds and maybe thousands of the wretches on my blessed lethargy inquire, "Well, old man, how are you feeling now?" There are but three degrees of murder recognized by the law, and none of them quite fulfills the requirements under these circumstances. I have endeavored to save my conscience with the excuse that, altho it is unwarranted for the mere visitor or friend, the attending physician of course has to keep informed on the condition of the patient. But that's no good, for no matter how faint the spark of life becomes, I can't help thinking that if the doctor were any good at all he ought to be able to see without asking just what progress the patient is making—and this doesn't help the ache in my conscience.

This recent cri (short for Common Respiratory Infection, pronounced kree) was a Streptococcus infection. It was epidemic. The Streptococcus is notorious for virulence and for its capacity for working havoc without inducing adequate reaction in the body and hence without inducing enough natural immunity to afford reasonable protection against subsequent attacks. That is why it was the worst cri I have ever had; incidentally it was the first cri I have had for many years. Whether my experience means anything, I don't know, but I believe it pays to keep ever in mind the fact that CRI spreads ordinarily via conversation, that spray and the effective range of such spray is less than five feet, no matter whether the specific infection proves to be measles, scarlet fever, pneumonia, bronchitis, diphtheria, whooping cough, infantile paralysis, acute sinusitis, acute coryza or what not. Nobody can tell until the victim has passed the stage of incubation. Meanwhile, if the victim takes seriously the teachings of the graft-holding public health berths, he can share his incubating illness with as many others as happen to come within his conversational spray range. That is how epidemics occur.

The Golden Rule is a fine rule in intercourse between nations, and a fine rule in hygiene—for the other fellow to follow.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Sun Bathing

It is our experience that sun bathing, complete, leaves one tired and in need of considerable rest after it. What is the explanation for this? (R.H.H. and C.H.H.)

Answer—Perhaps too long exposure. Failure to cover eyes with black mask or dark bandage and protect them from glare. Keep some fresh fruit beverage at hand and take it in the course of the bath.

Myasthenia Gravis

You wrote about myasthenia gravis and described my condition exactly—upper eyelids so tired I can hardly hold my eyes open, and it is a great effort to smile. Have clipped your article to show my doctor. Please tell me what dose of prostigmine is used? (Mrs. D.S.)

Answer—Hypodermic doses of 1-100th grain are used—such a dose gives relief for four or five hours. Doses much larger—1-4 grain to 1-2 grain—by mouth have same effect. First dose should be given by doctor, and subsequent dosage adjusted by him according to effects. It is not a cure, only palliative or temporary relief.

Your Birthday

"PISCES"

If February 25 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:45 to 11:45 a. m.; from 1:45 to 3:45 p. m., and from 7:45 to 9:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:45 to 9:45 a. m.; from 5:45 to 7:45 p. m., and from 9:45 to 11:45 p. m.

Be careful that impatience, does not involve you in trouble this day. There may be an urge to do things hurriedly, with the result that, if this inclination is given into they are apt to be badly done. The opportunity to do some good this day, must not be ignored, for many future benefits may be derived therefrom. Social aspirations are apt to be realized this day and a great deal of hospitality accorded by people from whom it is least expected. Intrigue perhaps will rear its ugly head and ought to be avoided as you would a pestilence, for only evil can come from it. Jealousy and greed are liable to influence actions, that might bring about many drastic changes in business and personal affairs. Married and engaged couples, as well as those who are striving to win some person's heart, should be very considerate of each other's feelings this day, because an unusual degree of sensitivity apparently will exist.

If a woman and February 25 is your birthday, you ought to have great self-control and an unlimited amount of diplomacy. With proper business training it is possible for you to develop much executive ability. A pleasure-loving nature should make you fond of social activities. Your personal magnetism may win the deep affection and lasting loyalty of many friends. You seem to have excellent prospects for many luxuries and a large income. Through a business venture of your own, or as an artist, literary woman, lecturer, entertainer or publicity agent you may become affluent. Your chance of marrying a thoroughly congenial man, capable of making you happy, seems to be very good.

The child born on February 25 will be kind and sympathetic. This youngster's love for a pet ought to entitle it to have one. It ought to become very successful.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington. Imagine a city with a council of 531 members to manage its affairs and you get an idea of what a sporting job it is to live and die in this city of the voteless. There are perennial differences between members of Congress from the provinces who make the city's laws and the local residents and business men of Washington. Off the record it probably is friendly enough, but it is a fact some outlying congressmen are pretty sarcastic in their remarks about local taxpayers.

Washington has no income tax (except the federal), no sales tax, and a property tax rate that is the basis of prolonged argument. Congressmen who pay state, county and municipal taxes, not to mention highway district and sewer taxes, simply boil when Washington delegations plead for the federal government to pay a larger share of city expenses.

The federal government buildings occupy a husky share of the better business sites in the district and pay no taxes. Long years ago an agreement was reached whereby the federal government was to kick in 40 per cent of the city budget, leaving the city to raise the balance by the useful tax systems.

But as the years rolled along Congress began nipping off its end, and now the federal government pays only about 10 per cent of a budget of some $45,000,000 annually. Congress fixes the amount of the budget after hearings and consultations with a local town board, but if the residents don't like it they have to take it anyway. They can't vote Congress out of office.

Tax Trouble

At various times suggestions have been made for income taxes to be levied on property owners, but that idea has bogged down. An income tax won't tilt members of Congress, since they could not keep a very straight face while they voted themselves exemptions. Last session they shouted down such a tax. This year a new proposal was advanced to require congressmen to pay income taxes based on the amount of time they spent here. That also was out.

District taxpayers are a bit hot under the collar about that since the congressmen don't pay income taxes in their home states either on their federal salaries.

Last year Congress tackled a business privilege tax on local merchants. The merchants could not very well pass it directly on to the consumers, so now there is pressure to replace it with a sales tax which the consumers would pay.

But congressmen, in voting taxes for the district, have to keep their shirts clean. Sales taxes are not popular out in the states, and the members don't want to be caught voting for one for the District.

Crime Trouble

Fight at the moment Washington is having a sort of crime wave, with robberies and burglaries reported by hands full. We have that on the authority of several high officials, including congressmen. Also there is a congressional campaign to "clean up" the city. The district has obtained a stout foothold among the voters, one-third of the city's population.

Congressmen on the one hand for the District to produce a "Dewey," like New York's to rid the city of the numbers rackets, and the District citizens cry for the vote so they can select their own law enforcement agencies. In turn they want to pay policemen. The present officers the District insists spend much of their time policing streets where the President is to drive, or in herding the protest marchers who are forever moving on the city.

And congressmen retort that Washington has a billion dollar industry with a steady payroll where the workers never strike, and what more could a city want?

Gambling Manager Tells Pegler Dice are Dishonest

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

Kansas City—In the course of this pleasant visit to Kansas City, where the blackjack dealers sit at his kidney-shaped table flipping cards to the clients in plain view of the public and the law, gamblers suffer much from the cynicism of those who like to think the worst.

I gave expression to a little doubt one recent evening while visiting a resort called the State Line tavern, a dance hall, bar and gambling house down in the cattle and railroad yards which straddles the line between Missouri and Kansas, with mischief and mirth on the Missouri side and nothing but morality and space in the few square feet where Kansas is.

There is some sort of law in process against the management at this writing on the claim of a Kansas authority that some clients of the tavern were crowded over the line one busy night when a goodly throng was there and were caught feloniously casting dice on forbidden ground. A survey is being made and ere the thing is settled Missouri and Kansas may resort to arms again, as of old, to make war over a boundary.

The manager had turned over to an assistant the stick or crook with which the cubes are retrieved from where they fall and was explaining with gracious patience what folly it would be for a casino with a steady, high class trade like his to permit any tricks of magic with the cubes or cards.

The clientele, incidentally, was composed in the main of men in overalls or other hardy apparel and seemed to be railroad laborers and freighters employed on the interstate truck lines. Some were snuffing around in the stately measures of the squirm with spotty and bedraggled ladies to whom no formal introduction seemed necessary, but most were hanging around the crap-tables, and none, be it said to the credit of their intelligence, were playing the bird cage.

Incidentally, it is very bad form to refer to the stickman's stick as a crook—a word as shocking in the State Line tavern and similar resorts as the word bloody in an English drawing room.

Manager Says Loaded Dice Are Forbidden

Loaded dice, the manager declared, and all other deceptions are positively forbidden in his pastimes and for proof he proudly displayed a franchise which said that E. A. Gould, the exclusive purveyor of dice to the State Line tavern, upon thorough investigation of the proprietor's character and the ethical standards of his place, had been pleased to confer this honor.

"This certifies," the document read, "that the State Line tavern have complied with all the requirements necessary to receive this franchise, which is subject to withdrawal for cause at any time without notice. One thousand dollars will be paid to anyone who can prove that any dice bearing the signature of E. A. Gould are not perfect, true dice."

It bore a gold seal with two red ribbons and the personal signature of E. A. Gould himself, a leading member of the gambling tool business, who is fighting to command for the game of craps, more truly than baseball, the American national game, the public respect and confidence which have been sacrificed to scurrilous innuendo and hearsay. He has composed a brochure, in which he declares that "any club displaying his franchise may be patronized with full confidence that the character and integrity of the men in charge have been investigated and approved by E. A. Gould.

Deck for Blackjack Had Marked Backs

It was a reassuring lesson, but my confidence backslid somewhat next day when I learned that a friend had fished from a blackjack dealer, to whom he lost $20, a deck of cards whose back design contained a subtle variation to distinguish the cards below No. 8 from those above.

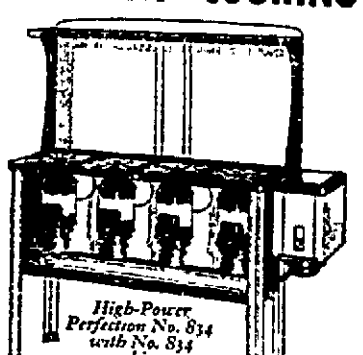

Could this have been a slip of the printing press do you suppose? Because my friend insists that, dealing blackjack with this deck, he has a valuable clue to the size of his opponent's hole-card and a potent advantage in deciding how much he has to beat himself.

Perhaps it was a mechanical error, but, if so, how would you account for a curious operation observed at a factory where a young salesman inadvertently led the way into a room marked "positively employees only," where a young woman with deft, sure fingers was busy making certain red ink marks on the back designs of hundreds of new red-backed playing cards?

I asked the young woman what these marks were for, but she only giggled and wouldn't say, and the best I can do is hope that she was just touching them up for aesthetic reasons. I appeal to Mr. Gould as defender of a long-suffering trade.

Green Bay Man to Head State Furniture Dealers

Milwaukee — (AP)—Arthur Schumacher, Green Bay, was elected president of the Wisconsin Retail Furniture Dealers' association at a convention meeting here Tuesday. The association named George Walter, Jr., vice president; Theodore Stickle, Milwaukee, secretary-treasurer; and Joseph Pfankuch, Menominee, Mich., and Oscar Lange, Marshfield, Wis., directors.

Concluding their convention, the dealers adopted a resolution seeking to prohibit the sale of prison-made wall goods, wares or merchandise on the open market in Wisconsin.

"Everybody is very nice. I'm sure I shall like Hollywood—especially when I get to see it. "A yellow cake of sulphur about the size of a piece of soap lies on the desk of George F. MacLeod, assistant professor of entomology at Cornell university.

The sulphur ticks like a watch. It has been ticking for four years. That is ever since the Texas Gulf Sulphur Company gave it to Dr. MacLeod to see whether he could find out new things about sulphur.

The cake has to be placed to your ear to hear the ticking. The sounds are a little irregular. They make you think of a watch having difficulty to get going; of the sound of ice crackling on a night of intense, clear, still cold.

Why this sulphur ticks Dr. MacLeod has not been able to learn. It probably is due to drying, he says. The cake loses a fraction of 1 per cent of its weight in a year.

But Dr. MacLeod has discovered several new uses for sulphur. It is not a poison. Yet he finds it will do the work of a poison in a different and very effective way. The yellow powder will keep various kinds of insects pests away from the crops.

Ithaca, N. Y. — A yellow cake of sulphur about the size of a piece of soap lies on the desk of George F. MacLeod, assistant professor of entomology at Cornell university.

The sulphur ticks like a watch. It has been ticking for four years. That is ever since the Texas Gulf Sulphur Company gave it to Dr. MacLeod to see whether he could find out new things about sulphur.

The cake has to be placed to your ear to hear the ticking. The sounds are a little irregular. They make you think of a watch having difficulty to get going; of the sound of ice crackling on a night of intense, clear, still cold.

Why this sulphur ticks Dr. MacLeod has not been able to learn. It probably is due to drying, he says. The cake loses a fraction of 1 per cent of its weight in a year.

But Dr. MacLeod has discovered several new uses for sulphur. It is not a poison. Yet he finds it will do the work of a poison in a different and very effective way. The yellow powder will keep various kinds of insects pests away from the crops.

"Au revoir. A gentleman is approaching, and I have the feeling I am about to be whisked somewhere again. I have been too bewildered to be bewildered, but am enjoying it. I hope you'll watch for the picture. Unless they change the title, it'll be 'Four Men and A Prayer.' Whatever is on the screen opposite Loretta Young is what Hollywood has done to

No woman can say that the styles of the season are not becoming to her. There is such a variety to choose from that she cannot help but find one for her particular type.

Smart-looking black, which has ridden on the crest of the fashion wave since last summer, still predominates, according to one of Appleton's leading millinery shops. One attractive model seen in a fashionable store here is a black felt poke bonnet with a huge black veil on which are tiny hand-applied white bow knots.

The perfect complements for tailored suits are the black and navy blue sailors, made feminine with bands of pink grosgrain ribbon, also being sold in Appleton.

For the women who prefer brown, there is a Spanish sailor in brown felt, trimmed with a gay chiffon band in orange, green and blue stripes.

New Mexican Shade

The colorful Spanish and Mexican influence, incidentally, is notable in this spring's hats. A new Mexican shade called paprika, a reddish brick color, promises to give to your black or brown costume the dash which the condiment of the same name gives to your salads. It appears most frequently as a trimming on black or brown hats and is usually in suede or patent leather.

Another of this spring's new colors are inspired by the sumptuous blooms of the tropical forests. Called jungle flower, it is a sort of delicate purple shade. A matron's straw hat in this color, seen in a local shop, had its brim faced with three shades of blue and orchid and was trimmed with hummingbird flowers. It would be difficult to find a more charming, smarter hat for the woman over 50.

Another older woman's hat is the chic tricorn covered with brown, gold and orange flowers displayed here.

If you've had a peek at some of the delectable resort hats being offered in this world of snow and slush, you must be wishing more and more that you could take a month off to go to Florida or Bermuda. Two that caught our eye particularly were the beige stitched taffeta sports model with brown embroidered polka dots and the small white silk creation trimmed with white angora. Both had scarfs to match.

Whether you like your crowns high or low, your brims rolled back from the face or down over one eye, you can wear your heart's desire this spring and be in style. According to Sally Victor, one of America's outstanding hat designers, recently returned from Paris, "Pillboxes, toques, sailors and forward-pitching hats inspired by Watteau's paintings are all good. Mingled with the talked of low crowns, there are some high crowns and high-trimmed low ones. Some brims roll back from the face, inspired by the Paris exposition's display of Goya's paintings. Other hats pick over the shoulders. Many are accented with shirred, colored ribbons or jerseys or are trimmed with flowers."

Legion and Auxiliary At Washington Dinner

Waupaca — Covers were laid for 60 members of the American Legion and its auxiliary at a Washington's birthday dinner at Circus Inn Tuesday evening. Dancing and cards furnished entertainment.

Three motion pictures were shown by Steuber. "We Who Walk," a chronicle of unposed moving pictures from several Wisconsin towns and cities, showed the faults of pedestrians that often lead to serious accidents. "Horse Sense and Horse Power," a talking picture, traced the development of the automobile, and showed graphically the relation of speed to the ability to stop a car in time.

The "Hit and Run Driver," the third picture, recorded the fatal injury of two persons, the fleeing of the driver, and his subsequent identification and conviction. It was emphasized that if the driver had taken the victims to the hospital at once their lives would have been saved.

Chief of Police James E. McFadden spoke on organizing a safety council here. This council, McFadden said, would be for the purpose of securing community cooperation with the police department in taking safety measures. The date for a meeting of all interested citizens and the election of officers will be announced later.

Oscar Johns, secretary of the local chapter of the Policemen's Benefit association, said that in view of the great interest shown in the program yesterday, another would be sponsored soon. Johns also said that capacity crowds were expected at similar affairs today at Little Chute and Kimberly.

Safety Programs Attract 1,500 to Civic Auditorium

Authorities on Accident Prevention Address Students, Adults

Kaukauna — More than 1,500 students and adults attended two highway safety programs staged yesterday afternoon and evening by the Kaukauna chapter of the Policemen's Benefit association. A program for students was held in the afternoon and one for adults in the evening, both at the civic auditorium.

T. H. Allen, former traffic officer at Superior, and now safety engineer of the Hardware Mutual Casualty company of Stevens Point, and William F. Steuber, assistant director of the state highway commission, were the speakers.

Allen's talk was devoted mainly to explaining the relation between pedestrians and motorists — the rights and duties of each. Steuber spoke on "The Coming Highway Accidents of 1938," explaining the nature and causes of automobile accidents and methods of prevention.

Three motion pictures were shown by Steuber. "We Who Walk," a chronicle of unposed moving pictures from several Wisconsin towns and cities, showed the faults of pedestrians that often lead to serious accidents. ## Character Actors Provide High Comedy in C. Y. O. Play

Select Associate Editors to Judge Pegasus Material

Kaukauna — While all of the cast of twelve in "Dotty and Daffy" have a hand in the numerous comedy situations of the play, the chief responsibility in the laugh department will rest in the play of four character parts. The play will be presented Sunday in the parish hall.

Charles Weber, Miss Helen Hopfensperger and Miss Florian McCabe will lead the laugh parade in the character parts of three servants, who have not been paid for a long time, incidentally, in the Travers mansion where the story takes place. Weber is Alfred, an English butler with the proverbial confused "H's. Miss Hopfensperger will be the part of a Swedish cook, who has a liking for Alfred. Miss McCabe will portray the character of an Irish cook, also with a liking for Alfred.

Miss Virginia Goetzman will assume twenty years of age and go back a score of years in fashions to play the part of a straight laced spinster, Hester Harley, aunt to Mrs. Phyllis Travers, around whom the action of the comedy revolves.

All four of the characters will be new to audiences at the Holy Cross auditorium, none of them having appeared in the recent productions there. Miss Goetzman and Miss Hopfensperger are recent graduates of Kaukauna High school, where they received their training in dramatics.

Miss McCabe is a student at Outagamie Rural Normal school, which she entered last fall after her graduation from Wrightstown high school. Her Irish brogue is the real thing, as she hails from a neighborhood east of Wrightstown, where the traditions of old Erin are still intact.

A rehearsal of the entire play will be held in the church basement tonight in preparation for the dress rehearsal tomorrow night.

One-Fifth of Real Estate Taxes Paid

Menasha City Treasurer Reminds Citizens of March 1 Deadline

Menasha—Approximately one-fifth of all Menasha real estate taxes has been paid in full, according to C. A. Heckrodt, city treasurer. Only three days remain in which real estate taxes may be paid without penalty. Real estate taxes are declared delinquent on March 1 and a penalty attached for late payment. Menasha taxpayers have the option of paying their taxes on a monthly basis as a result of action by the city council. Twenty percent of the taxes must be paid by the end of February and the balance must be paid in installments of 10 per cent on the first of each month, starting with March 1. Only a small interest charge of one-quarter of one per cent a month is made. Last year approximately 400 persons made use of the plan.

Earl E. Fuller, Winnebago county treasurer, spent Wednesday at the Menasha city office to confer with delinquent taxpayers. While some of the taxes were paid, many since 1930, others were delinquent for only a year or two, sometimes merely because the property owner forgot about the matter.

Mr. Fuller advised the property owners on how to protect themselves so the county would not be forced to take tax deeds on 99 descriptions of property. Some of the descriptions covered business property but the majority were residential, with only a few residences involved.

Train Pupils to Operate Calculator To Supply Paper Mill Office Demand

Neenah—Two new pieces of equipment, a calculator and a 3-unit dictaphone system, which were added to the commercial department of Neenah High school last week are calculated to give the students training in order to supply the demand for operators by Neenah paper manufacturers, according to Lawrence Blume, commercial instructor.

Paper mill offices use a large number of dictaphones and calculators and have had to draw from outside the city if they didn't have time to train a Neenah High school graduate, Blume said.

The three units to the dictaphone system are recording, broadcasting and shaver. The system is arranged so that 12 students may take dictation off one record simultaneously, 12 earphones being attached to the recording machine.

Miss Frances Foley is in charge of the dictaphone classes in which there are 50 students. The dictaphone room is available throughout the day so that the students may take advantage of it during their free periods.

Regular Class Next Year No regular class is being taught this year in rapid computation, but Blume is teaching about 18 seniors how to operate the calculator during the students' free periods. A regular class will be offered next year, however. The class will be limited to seniors, especially those who have leads for jobs in order that they can continue practicing on the machine; otherwise, they will forget the operation.

Blume said there are few schools the size of the local high school which have calculators, although large high schools have them. The high cost of the machines prevents small schools from obtaining them.

Officials are demanding that high school graduates know how to operate mimeographs and other duplicating machines. One of the popular courses in the school is business administration which is taught by Blume. The students currently are studying consumer education in which they are taught sales resistance instead of salesmanship in order that they may recognize high pressure salesmanship.

Arsonist Claims Employer Paid Him To Set Omro Blaze

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau Oshkosh—Floyd Locke, carpenter and handy man, convicted last fall on a charge of arson in connection with a fire which destroyed a 3-apartment building in the village of Omro July 1, 1937, testified Wednesday afternoon and Thursday morning in circuit court in the case of State versus Edward Oatman, Clinton, Iowa.

Oatman is charged with either procuring or counseling Locke to start the fire, which resulted in the building being burned to the ground with a loss estimated at $28,000. Locke was brought to Oshkosh from Waupun where he is serving a sentence for the crime.

His testimony was substantially the same as when convicted in municipal court, charging he had been offered $100 by Oatman, his employer, to set the blaze. He told the court this morning he had received the amount in many small payments.

As court adjourned this noon, Judge C. F. Van Pelt, sitting for Judge Henry P. Hughes, ruled that Rodney Alder, Omro attorney, be required to furnish records and letters relating to the fire loss.

Enlarge Quarters Of Labor Unions at Neenah-Menasha

New Hall Will Seat 350; Plan Benefit Dance Saturday Night

Neenah—Headquarters of the Neenah-Menasha Trades and Labor council and the Twin City Union club are being remodeled and enlarged. The enlarged Labor temple will include one large hall at 137 and 141 Main street and also will include a large tap room in the location previously occupied by the tavern.

The seating capacity of the new hall will be about 350 persons. Plans are being completed to move the bar today or Friday so the premises will be ready for the dance sponsored by the Twin City Union club Saturday night.

The dance Saturday will not be the official opening of the new quarters but is merely a benefit dance for the club's housing committee.

Plans for the official opening of the new Labor temple to the public are being made for either the first Saturday or Sunday after lent. In the meantime the walls, floors and decorations will be refinished.

The new Labor temple has been an increasing necessity for the last two years because of the rapidly growing membership of the American Federation of Labor organizations in Neenah and Menasha, according to Ervin Wheelock, secretary of the organization.

A partition has been installed in the new large hall room so that two unions may hold their meetings there each night. For dances, parties and mass meetings the partition will be removed so there will be one large hall.

There are approximately 3,300 members of the American Federation of Labor in the Twin Cities, according to Wheelock, with 2,000 of them affiliated with the Neenah-Menasha Trades and Labor council.

Germany Takes Over France's 'Iron Ring'

New York—France used her prestige and diplomacy after the World war to force an "iron ring" of armed and allied nations designed to keep Germany under control.

By 1925 the ring was almost complete. It consisted of the Little Entente nations plus Poland, Russia and Belgium. Britain stood aloof.

Now in 1938, Germany is bullied by no nation and the iron ring is her own. Only Czechoslovakia and Russia stand with France against Germany's expansionist career.

Germany is linked closely with Italy and the influence of these two nations is felt strongly in Hungary and, now, Austria. Danzig is in the Nazi camp. Belgium has declared herself neutral. The Nazi-Fascist influence is strong enough in Poland, Rumania and Yugoslavia to make their positions at least doubtful.

Coopers Protest Used Kegs in Aging Whisky

Menasha — A protest against a proposed change in present federal regulations which would allow use of second-hand barrels in aging whiskey was made by Coopers Local No. 22 in telegrams to Senator Robert M. LaFollette and Senator F. Ryan Duffy this week.

Under present regulations, only new barrels may be used in the aging of bonded whiskey. The union protested the proposed change on the grounds that it "would throw thousands of our men engaged in the manufacture of cooperage out of work." Both the senators answered, stating they would bring the Menasha union's protest before proper authorities.

The union also made plans at its meeting this week for an extensive campaign against use of steel barrels for beer.

Judge Reprimands Jury for Verdict In Federal Court

'Very Disappointed' Over Acquittal in Sale of Liquor to Indians

Superior—(AP)—Declaring he was "very disappointed" in the verdict, Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone reprimanded a jury yesterday after it acquitted Morris Baadness, 45, of Radisson, of a charge of selling liquor to Indians.

Baadness pleaded innocent, asserting he was not at his tavern when the sale was made.

Joseph Lavato, returned here from Leavenworth prison on a liquor conspiracy charge, was sentenced to serve a year and a day. Lavato, after receiving a suspended sentence from Judge Stone a year ago on an internal revenue charge, was arrested in a raid on a still at Little Rice, Oneida county.

A jury was drawn yesterday to hear a $15,000 damage suit brought by Ralph Mayhey, of Knapp, against Frank Ralph, Minneapolis, driver of a car involved in the accident, and the Phoenix Indemnity company.

Disobeyed Summons

John S. Worzila, Stevens Point, Wis., was found guilty on contempt of court for disobeying a summons and request to submit information under provisions of the Social Security act and to provide access to books and records concerning his employees during 1936 and 1937.

A warrant of arrest was issued against him on the complaint of O. A. LaBuddé, collector of internal revenue at Milwaukee, after continued efforts to obtain the desired information had failed. Worzila, who operates and owns the Folding Furniture wor's in Stevens Point, was ordered by Judge Stone to provide full access to his books

The WORLD OF STAMPS

BY JAMES B. HATCHER

The Hindustani word for "post" is dak, also written dawak or dauk. In 1852, India's first stamp carried it in the inscription "Seinde District Dawk." And now it appears again on India's adhesives.

Eight means of mail transport are pictured on the empire's new general set. The pictorial subject is combined with the king's head in the manner of the Silver Jubilee issue.

The 2-anna vermilion shows a dak runner with a mail bag over his shoulder and a spear in his free hand. The Indian post office still employs about 10,000 of these runners in remote districts. The bullock cart (on the 2 1/2 a dull violet) and the tonga, a high two-wheeler cart (on the 3-a green), are also still used in the interior.

Before the railway era, the slow bullock cart served for much of the mail delivery, with the faster two-horse tonga supplementing. The tonga is used very little these days for dak purposes.

The dak camel, which plods across the desert areas of Sind and Baluchistan, appears with its load of mail and postman-rider on the 3 1/2-a deep blue. The higher values (4-a brown, 6-a turquoise, 8-a purple black and 12-a carmine lake) show modern methods of mail carrying: train, steamer, "lorry" and plane.

The plane incidentally is one of Britain's huge new Armstrong-Whitworth models now flying the London-Calcutta airmail.

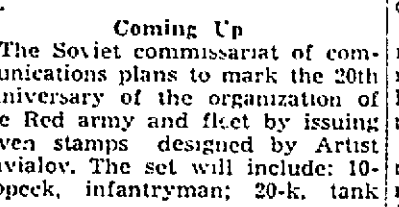

Farida And Farouk

At the eleventh hour, Egyptian postal authorities decided to produce a wedding stamp for Queen Farida and King Farouk. The result is a wide, narrow adhesive showing the royal portraits in a central, wealth-framed medallion. The royal ciphers, crown-surmounts, are at either side, and the date, January 20, 1938, appears below in French and Arabic.

It is a red-brown 5-millimes stamp, and 200,000 were printed. Cairo's chief post office was jammed on the day of issue and only two stamps were sold to a customer.

Chile is soon to sell a set reminding the world that she owns Easter Island whose huge stone idols have long puzzled archeologists in Polynesia.

The Swedish post office has announced five stamps to commemorate the 300th anniversary of the founding of the Swedish colony in Delaware. These will appear late in March in values of 5, 15, 20, 30 and 60 ore.

STAMP CLUB MEETS

The Appleton High school Philatelic society will hold a meeting this afternoon at the school. The session, scheduled for yesterday, was postponed because of a teachers' gathering. General exchange of stamps will be conducted.

Little Damage to Auto Struck by Locomotive

Antigo — (AP)—John Chert approached a railroad crossing in his automobile at the same time as a North Western road engine. Chert knew the road was slippery and that he couldn't stop in time to prevent a crash, so he jumped.

The engine carried the car only 10 feet, dented it a bit and crushed a fender.

Chert, without even his hair mussed, climbed back into the car and drove away.

URNS DOWN 2 UNIONS

Madison—(AP)—The state labor relations board announced today it has denied applications of two independent Milwaukee labor groups for listing as bona fide unions.

The groups are the Independent Tannery Workers of America, made up of employees of the J. Greenbaum Tanning company, and the United Candy workers, made up of employees of the Sperry Candy company.

Maybe This Is Why You're Constipated

Perhaps the kind of food you eat doesn't give your bowels anything to work on. Meat, potatoes and bread don't form the kind of soft, bulky mass that will help move your bowels.

If so, a dish of crisp, crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast will give you just the kind of "bulk" your intestines may need to work properly. And in addition, it contains the intestinal tonic, vitamin B, which helps to tone them. If you want to get at the cause of your trouble, eat some Kellogg's All-Bran every day—as a cereal or baked in muffins. And drink plenty of water. All-Bran is made by Kellogg's Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

That Will Appeal To Home Owners - Contractors and Builders

We are pleased to announce that we have acquired the business of the M. G. Auer Sheet Metal Co. It will be operated as a division of the W. J. Durham Lumber Co. under the direction of Matt Auer, the former owner.

We are now operating a modern, fully equipped sheet metal shop with complete stocks of raw materials, furnaces, air-conditioning units and oil burners. Our workmen have been carefully selected for their skill and ability.

Our large warehouses have made possible the purchase of materials and furnaces in carload quantities at substantial savings, a policy we have long advocated. It will be our policy, and is our promise, that these savings and the economies of efficient management will be passed on to our customers.

A WORD ABOUT SERVICE

One of the reasons this company has entered the heating and sheet metal field is, that it was next to impossible to obtain prompt and intelligent service. Delays and broken promises have cost home owners, contractors and industrials untold, needless expense. We will guarantee our service and are glad to back it up with a penalty clause in our contracts.

Your inquiries will receive our prompt attention.

Louis Blasts Mann in Third

Champion Retains Title;
Floors Challenger
Four Times

BY GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK.—Standing up courageously and slugging it out like a basket of wildcats with Joe Louis still is one of the surgest methods known of getting knocked all out of shape, as Natie Mann was telling his Connecticut friends between cut lips today.

Natie wanted to know, and he found out to the lasting satisfaction of himself and 19,490 paying fans in the Garden last night, when the brown-skinned champion gave him a sickening beating and left him on the floor, with not a thought in his head, in 1:56 of the third round.

Making the second defense of the title he won only last June, the big Negro looked like a composite of all those superlatives lavished on him two winters ago as he cut down and tore apart the former champion who thought he could slug it out with him. If the Bomber ever went anywhere, he's back among us.

Unmarked, not even blowing from the brief workout, he sat later and said he would like more time-up before his monumental encounter with Max Schmeling in June. Promoter Mike Jacobs promised to pick an opponent for Joe today, and the betting was it would be Harry Thomas at Chicago, with Jimmy Adamick an outside choice.

Floored Four Times
Whoever draws the assignment of giving Louis another testing is not to be congratulated. There are easier ways of making money than being on the receiving end of the brutal jabs and rights that spilled Mann four times last night and left his brain addled for 20 minutes after he was counted out.

"If I had it to do over again, I'd never try to fight him like that," said Natie, sadly, as his four husky brothers tried to console him in his dressing room. "I guess he's a terrible biter. I didn't know at first after he tagged me the first time early in the second round."

It was a left hook to Natie's jaw. He didn't go down, only drifted against the ropes for a space, and neither Louis nor the yelling crowd, including 6,000 extra-loud Connecticut, knew Natie was out on his feet. He was knocked down for a nine count later in the round, and in the fatal third round, Louis all over the ring and we down three times without having a glimmer of what was going on.

"I haven't the least idea what happened after that first lick," he insisted. "I don't even remember the rest period between rounds. If I did any fighting in the third round it must have been instinct alone. I came to a little bit just as Arthur Donovan yelled 'ten' in my ear."

Mann Forced Fight
Which gives a hint, however hazy, of the lethal power in Louis' fists. Mann never had been knocked out before. The boxer who wants to bob and weave and play it cute still can make the champion look less saudy than he did last evening, no doubt, but no fighter could have stood up under the barrage that assailed Mann.

On the strength of his superb showing against a fighter who, admittedly, was made to his order, Louis' stock probably will rise sharply against Schmeling. The Negro has regained the old fire that was sadly lacking when Max pinned his ears back two summers ago. It is highly probable, even, that he will enter the ring a favorite over the man who nailed him.

To Mann's credit, it can be said he was true to his word. Foolhardy as it looked in retrospect, he went after Louis and threw his right. He even made the opening round fairly close by banging Joe's jaw with a couple while the champ remained impassive behind his long left jab.

Louis Slugs Back
He made a mistake, though, when he kept it up in the second round. Natie sailed in and put across some thumpers as his home town rooters raved. Suddenly, Louis began fighting back viciously, and in the first real mixup he planted the left hook that engulfed Mann's senses. A moment later he slugged him to the canvas for nine, and only the bell saved Natie for another round.

Louis was without mercy when they came out again. Two lefts crashed his befogged rival to the floor for short counts before a final right, packing all of Joe's 200 pounds behind it, put the game kid down for good. He was counted out.

Menzel's Mother Sees Son Play for 1st Time

Philadelphia—(AP)—The mother of Roy Menzel, Penn's star basketball center, surprised him last night with the Wisconsin-Penn game at the Palestra.

Mrs. W. C. Menzel of Stevens Point, Wis., came east with the Badgers to see her son play for the first time. She did not reveal her presence until after the game.

Menzel started with four baskets and two free throws for 10 points, although the Badgers won, 52-44.

Brown Bomber Looks Like Louis of Pre-Title Days

BY EDDIE BRIETZ
NEW YORK.—Concentrated murder—that's Joe Louis.

When the Brown bomber champ wades in and starts swinging with those fists like pistons, it's just too bad. . . . Last night he looked like the same fellow who was bumping off Max Baer, Primo Carnera et al. a couple of years back. . . . Nathan Mann is a good game kid—a little too game for his own good. . . . He may have been dazed and groggy and likely was a good bit of both, but not so much so that he forgot to congratulate Joe.

German Team Leading Six Day Bike Racers

Milwaukee—(AP)—The German team of Gus Kilian and Heinz Vopel held a three-point lead over their nearest competitors today in the seventh international six-day bicycle race. Three teams were bunched one lap behind the leaders, who had toured 176 miles and eight laps.

Standing at 6 a. m. (nine hours of racing):

Miles
Kilian-Vopel	176 8 58
Walther-Crossley	176 7 55
Buhler-Huertgen	176 7 34
Yates-Ottevaire	176 7 39
Van Kempen-Audy	176 6 44
Rodai-Krosmeier	176 6 16
Mc Nauwens-Zach	176 5 13

ed out on one knee as he stared glassily at the referee.

Despite the abandon with which he threw punches, Louis' fists came out in it in perfect condition. His camp, secretly, had been a little worried about the knuckles he knocked down against Tommy Farr's head last summer.

Louis, at 200, outweighed Mann by six and one half pounds.

Major League Clubs Preparing To Limber Up in Spring Camps

TAMPA, Fla.—(AP)—Ground-keepers in a dozen south and central Florida baseball parks cast proud glances today toward grassy infields and baselines made trim for the 1938 major league spring training season which gets underway tomorrow.

The Boston Bees, led by Casey Stengel, head into camp at Bradenton Friday, and after them in rapid succession six other major league clubs will start spring drills in this section.

Thirty-one members of the Cincinnati Reds will arrive in Tampa Friday night, preparatory to their first workout. Saturday morning under Bill McKechnie, their new manager.

The world's championship Yankees will receive the keys to St. Petersburg early Sunday, and start work in Huggins field an hour later.

At the same time the Washington Senators will pitch camp at Orlando where Clark Griffith and Manager Buckey Harris have things in readiness.

The Boston Red Sox and the St. Louis Cardinals get started on March 2; the former at Sarasota and the "Gashouse Gang" at St. Petersburg. Two days later the Brooklyn Dodgers, now directed by Larry McPhail, formerly of the Reds, will start ironing out muscular kinks in Clearwater.

Mickey Cochrane, on hand these few weeks for golfing and fishing has called his Detroit Tigers to their first workout in Lakeland March 6.

Patty Berg Advances In Women's Tourney

Ormond Beach, Fla.—(AP)—A field which would grace the quarter-finals of a national championship paired off today in the round-of-eight of the South Atlantic women's golf tournament.

Patty Berg, Minneapolis school-girl undefeated so far in the winter schedule, looked for some opposition from Sally Guth of Webster Grove, Mo., a newcomer to the Florida tour.

Miss Berg, the medalist, defeated Mrs. Joseph L. Lawler of New Rochelle, N. Y., 7 and 5, yesterday, while Miss Guth eliminated Elizabeth L. Wing of Evanston, Ill., 4 and 3.

3 Sets of Brothers Interested in Fox Valley Pin Crown

This family bowling argument looks as though it's going to be a free-for-all affair.

Several days ago the Schuler brothers of Little Chute issued a challenge to any five brothers in the valley and now it has been announced that the Vander Veldens of Kimberly have taken up the challenge. Added to that the Luthen brothers of Appleton to day issued a challenge to the winner of the Schuler-VanderVelden match.

The Schulers are Earl, Little Chute, Carl, Kaukauna; Bill, Dago Chuter, Carl, Kaukauna; and Ed, Appleton. The Vander Veldens are Simon, Elmer, "Chub," Urban and Lyle of Appleton and Kimberly. And the Luthens are Al, Frank, Hank, Andy and Bob of Appleton.

Working Daughter Needn't Support Whole Household

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—Until a year ago five of us were trying to live on my small salary as a stenographer. It was a meager existence, although my mother is the world's best manager. Then my two brothers, both able and husky young men, descended on us with the idea that they a right to come home and be supported. I did not complain, though I was the only bread-winner, because times were hard. But after both brothers refused prospects of employment three or four times because, as one said he would rather starve than work for a laborer's pay, and the other said he would find his own work if he wanted it, I lost patience and asked them to leave. When my mother found out about this she was very much offended with me and has been very reproachful ever since. After one brother called the other day she said he was just a bundle of nerves from having to work. She never considers that I am just a bundle of nerves from the strain of supporting so many persons. More than that, I am engaged to one of the finest men in the world who hasn't been too proud to do any kind of work he could get to do, but we have to put off our marriage for a year because of my brother's shiftlessness. But my mother still thinks that I am a cold, hard-hearted, selfish, sister because I am not willing to support my brothers. What do you think? MABEL.

Answer: I think you did exactly right in refusing to support your able-bodied brothers, and if more girls had the grit and courage to do as you have done it would reduce the number of loafers in our midst.

There are thousands upon thousands of homes like yours that are supported by the daughters of the family and to which the sons never contribute a cent, but in which the mothers feel that they should be pampered guests.

Mother always has an alibi for her sons being good-for-nothing deadbeats. John is so delicate he can't do hard labor, although he is the picture of health, can play baseball all afternoon and spend the night walking around a pool table. Percy is so temperamental, he just can't find any congenial work to do. And Tom always loses his job through bad luck and never because of drink. And, of course, the poor darlings had to come home when they were hungry and had no place to go.

So Mother takes them in, pets them, feeds them, gives them money for cigarettes and liquor and buys them new clothes, and she thinks what a good mother she is. And it never crosses her mind what a mean, cruel, dastardly turn she is doing her daughters, or how unfair it is that she should make a delicate girl work to support a strong healthy man, and that she should take a girl's hard earnings to give to a man who is too lazy to work himself.

Why daughters are any more obligated to take care of their parents than sons are, nobody knows. Nor does anybody know why parents think they have a right to their girls' money and not to their boys', but that is the way they feel about it. They take a girl's pay envelope as a matter of course. They don't realize that she is supporting the house, that they have no right to impose her brothers upon her, make her feed and clothe them when they are far more able to work than she is.

But they do it, and there is no hope that Mother will ever do otherwise. She will always be ready with the fatted calf, which Susie has to pay for, when the prodigal son comes home. That is not only hard on Susie; it is the ruination of the weak, self-indulgent, idler who will never work as long as he has a good bed to sleep in and plenty of food to eat, and Mother to supply him with a little change on the side.

The only cure for the trifling is to throw them out on their own and make them realize that they have to work or starve. A gnawing stomach would cure many a temperamental sponger and make any work look good if it furnishes the price of a meal. So more power to the girl who had enough backbone to sweep her lazy brothers out of doors. May her tribe increase.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I have a friend who has reached the dangerous age for women. She has always been the soul of honor and discretion and I am surprised and shocked to find that she is having an affair with a man. She thinks she is being careful and that no one knows it, but in a small town one can't get by with things like this. Besides, the man is a big-mouth bragging boy about ten years younger than she and he is boasting about it. This woman has two beautiful young daughters and a splendid husband. When it all comes out they will be wrecked. I believe I could bring this woman to her senses and make her give this boy up by talking to her, but I hesitate to do so. It may be the end of a friendship that I value highly. What shall I do?

LOYAL FRIEND.

Answer: I think, too, that you might save the woman by letting her know that people know of her infatuation and are beginning to talk about her. For the fear of Mrs. Grundy and what "they'll say" keeps many a woman in the straight and narrow way who was tempted to take a stroll down the primrose path.

But don't talk to the woman. Write her letter. If you talk to her she will vent her fury on you for being found out and may say things that can never be forgotten or forgiven. But there is something cold and deadly, without any heat of passion in it, that is like a final judgment in the written word that she will have to consider.

And don't fail to tell her that the boy is bragging of his conquest. The humiliation of that will bring her up short if anything will. A middle-aged woman having a love affair with a lad almost young enough to be her son is one of the most pitiable tragedies in life. It is bound to end disastrously for the woman. (Copyright, 1938)

Ayer Itan Temple

"Who is this goddess?" I asked. "She is the goddess of mercy," said my guide, a Chinese resident of Penang.

A wind god statue in Ayer Itan temple.

We were standing before a shrine in Ayer Itan temple. The statue was dressed in cloth robes of golden brown color with a blue border. Near it were two other statues, and I was told these were images of the same goddess.

On each side of the shrine were scores of small wooden figures covered with gilt paint. "These figures," said the guide, "are images of the disciples of the goddess of mercy."

Not far from the shrine was a counter where several objects were on sale. You could buy joss sticks, which are thin pieces of wood or reed covered with a hardened paste. When these are burned, they produce incense which some persons like to smell. It is widely believed in the Orient that the burning of joss sticks is pleasing to gods and goddesses.

Paper "money" was also on sale, but it was "temple money," not the kind you could buy things with at a store. In many temples (chiefly those where Chinese go to worship) money of this kind is burned. Those who burn it fancy they are supplying money to gods and spirits. If they aren't doing that, at least they are helping the temple—for they pay much more for the "money" than the cost of making it.

Firecrackers were sold in the temple. They are not only sold but also are exploded. The guide showed me an oven, about the size of a small furnace. When the firecrackers are set off, they are tossed through an opening in this oven. No one was doing this while I was there, but I saw exploded firecrackers lying about.

Farther up the hill on which this temple is built, I came to a pool almost filled with "holy turtles." About 200 turtles occupy the pool, and they are the gifts of Buddhists. The guide said one of the turtles had been in the pool 40 years. This may be true, for turtles are long-lived animals.

Climbing more steps, the visitor sees statues of the wind gods. They are not "good looking," but they are supposed to have power over the winds from the north, south, east and west.

All along the way to the pagoda at the top of the hill are images of the Buddha. The pagoda is a high tower built in the Chinese style. It shines brightly with gilt paint.

Suit Value Important In Bidding

BY ELY CULBERTSON

The great match-point value that may be attached to a mealy 20 or 30 points in duplicate bridge causes some spirited bidding duels. The team that holds the superior ranking suit has a distinct advantage, of course, in these duels. But this advantage does not insure victory, by any means. Consider the close decision thrust on South in the following hand:

NORTH		EAST
♠ A 8 7 5	♥ J 6 2	♠ J 6 2	♥ J 6 2
♦ 10 6 4	♣ 10 5 3	♦ 10 6 4	♣ 10 5 3
♠ 10 5 3	♥ A 8 7 5	♠ 10 5 3	♥ A 8 7 5
♦ A 8 7 5	♣ A 8 7 5	♦ A 8 7 5	♣ A 8 7 5

The bidding:
North Pass East 1 heart South Pass West Pass
2 spades South Pass 2 clubs
3 hearts Pass Pass 4 hearts Double
Pass Pass Pass

South's opening bid was weak, but not unduly so as third hand in a match-point duplicate game. When North came in, first, with a spade bid and later, with a heart raise, and the opponents still persisted to four clubs, South found himself rather on the spot. He realized, of course, that he and his partner might be able to defeat four clubs, but certainly there was no assurance of that. The bidding had told him clearly that North had only one club, and, therefore, he decided to go to a heart lead in the hope that he would go down no more than one trick which, even doubled, would be 100 points against the 130 points that would accrue to four clubs.

Personally, I think his decision was wrong, that if four clubs could be made, four hearts would be punished more than one trick. But I must admit that South's course had a remarkably good outcome.

West opened the club ace (lucky for South that East did not win the first club trick since a heart lead through the king-jack then would have resulted in dummy's trumps being taken out and the defenders eventually taking three clubs, two hearts, and one diamond. Afraid to break any other suit, West continued clubs. Dummy ruffed, and a low diamond was led. East, one of those defenders who automatically play "second hand low," ducked, and the king won. Declarer's last club was ruffed and another low diamond was led. This time East thought about the proper play and was afraid to put up the ace for fear that declarer would ruff. So now the blank jack won. Having "gotten away with murder" thus far, declarer now warned to his partner, he saw a chance to avoid the loss of a spade trick. He played the heart king. West won, and returned a club. Declarer ruffed and led the heart jack. West took his queen and led his last club. Declarer ruffed and drew the one outstanding trump with the heart nine. This lead was to much for East, who had to find a discard. Dummy was down to the A-9 of spades and the blank queen of clubs. East, discarding after dummy, had to let go a spade from the J-6-2 or the diamond ace. Naturally, he preferred the former, but this was quite satisfactory to declarer, who led a low spade to the ace and returned to his own king, dropping the queen and jack together. Declarer's remaining spade gave him his tenth and fulfilling trick.

To put it mildly, the defenders had been very helpful!

Good Taste Today
By Emily Post

LINEN AND SILVER
Dear Mrs. Post: Some time ago I read somewhere that the world had modernized to such an extent that it is now perfectly proper to have silverware or linens marked with the initial of the husband-to-be, once the engagement had been announced. Inasmuch as I was brought up under the old school, which believed that the bride's initials should be put on such items, even though the wedding date was but a week away, I am quite sure that I must have read of this revision in practices in your column. Otherwise I don't think I should have been so impressed. Did you write it, and if so, will you repeat

Children's Tendency to Forget Should Be Curbed

BY ANGELO PATRI

"Marty, did you open your bed and air your room this morning?" "O, I forgot."

"Susan, I don't find your composition. Did you hand it in this morning?" "O, Miss Grace, I left it home on my desk. I'm so sorry. I'll bring it in this noon."

"Henry, did you go to the hardware store for those nails for your father?"

"O, goodness. I never thought of it. I'd better go right now. Gee, and I passed the door on the way home from school, too. Now I have to go all the way back. Wish you had reminded me at noon."

Forgetting costs a lot of time and makes a lot of trouble. It is a bad habit to form because it has a way of forming itself into reasons for not doing things one must do. "I forgot" soon sets to be a defense against any accusation of neglect. No child can afford to cultivate the open road to failure that "I forgot," so surely proves to be.

As soon as children are old enough to have responsibilities, like lessons that come on certain days, errands that are to be done at odd times, chores that are out of the usual routine, but which must be done, a note book, or a card chart, will help to remind him. These notes should be written on the date on which they are to be done. The child learns to consult his book or his card and check off each note as it is fulfilled. That habit is priceless. It helps one to keep engagements on time; to save time and energy; to live smoothly and to gain a reputation for dependability that is worth all the trouble it costs.

Others establish routine habits by close supervision and the aid of the clock. It is not usual for children to forget habits that have been set from infancy, in this way. Saying, "I forgot to wash my teeth," can usually be interpreted accurately as, "I wanted to forget to wash my teeth."

It is when the children are going to school and taking on extra activities associated with home and school, that the checking card or notebook is needed. Mothers should help these children to establish this habit, but allow the children to do their own checking. The habit must be self-checking or it does not function.

In the beginning the card may be best. It is tacked in some place easily and surely seen by the child. There is a pencil attached by a string hanging close by it, and the child enters his duties and checks them off himself. It will be necessary at the beginning for mother to say, "Better set that down so you will not forget it." But she should not follow it up. That is left for the child to do. By making himself responsible for the doing and checking, the child learns to use his card and also to remember what it records.

Mothers can help children to remember by telling them at the right time. The right time means when the child's attention is centered on what she is saying. Never tell a child to do anything while he is busy thinking or doing something else. Make the direction brief, clear, positive. Don't talk about it. Let the child feel you have finished when you have given him the responsibility. Give only one direction at a time.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of the Appleton Post-Crescent, stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

what you have said; if not, will you express an opinion?

Answer: For a long time it has been considered equally correct to have the bride's household linen and silver both marked with her married initials (her own, not her husband's) the reason for this being that the Brown family would otherwise have to go through their lives with linen and silver marked with an "A" instead of a "B." But it is not proper to have either of these items marked with the husband's name. That is, Mary Smith who marries John Brown has her silver marked either "M.S." or "M.S.B." as she prefers, and not "J.B." As a matter of fact, there was a question in this column not very long ago that came from a bride who particularly wanted the linen to be used in her husband's personal bathroom and also to be put on the bed of her husband marked with his own initials. My answer to this was that there is no rule against it but it is certainly not the conventional thing to do. Certainly if a man has his own bathroom, for instance, decorated in dark blue and white, there would be no objection to having the towels in it marked with his initials, also in dark blue, whereas all the bathrooms in the rest of the house, including his wife's own, would be marked with her initials. Sometimes the linen in the nursery is marked for the baby, and I have seen napkins and bibs that were marked with the initials or names of various children. The only new and really upsetting change suggested to me lately was that from a bride who wanted to mark her silver and linen with her own maiden name because she was afraid, in case of divorce later that her husband's initials would not be proper for a second husband. Naturally my answer for this was, "If that's the way you feel about the marriage you're entering into you'd better not enter into it!" Therefore, I don't think we need consider that question in today's discussion. (Copyright, 1938)

Suit to Be In Fashion This Spring

BY ELSIE PIERCE

Actually we have one predominant style in mind, and that is the vogue for suits. The others we can take or leave, knowing that fashion is so versatile that she must have something we can wear with ease and grace and equanimity.

But suits! They seem to be as much a part of spring as the crocuses and the robin. And this year they're the basis and the very essence of every fashion-right wardrobe.

Nothing acts as a tonic quite as much as spring itself, and the excuse it gives for purchasing a new hat and new outfits. But, by the same token, nothing is quite as distressing as the situation: "Here it is spring and I can't wear a suit, because my figure isn't built on suit lines."

Get Busy Now! Find solace in the fact that there are still many weeks before the Easter parade is on. If you are serious about keeping in step with a spring suit, get busy now.

Do your deep breathing and arm flinging exercises to firm and lift the bust muscles. Invest in an up-lift brassiere. Remember that suits may be man-tailored, but the figure beneath is all-feminine "the form divine."

Do your bending exercises to whittle that waist down to wafer proportions.

Roll off those hips.

Pull in that tummy!

Tuck in the derriere!

Get yourself a good girdle, figure molding and controlling.

Accuse us of platitudes, if you will, but it is true that in exercise, at least, persistence pays and practice makes for perfect proportions. So practice your daily dozen exercises faithfully, suiting them to your needs.

My complete booklet "Reduce by Exercise" (Booklet 202) is yours for 10 cents. It covers the subject thoroughly. Send for it, giving your name and full address to the Bell Library, in care of this newspaper, 247 West 43rd Street, New York, N. Y.

EMPIRE FOR A LADY

BY ALAN LEHAY

SYNOPSIS while revolting Dyak tribes besiege Rajah Mantusen and the Malays, James Clyde, trader and gun-runner, faces the greatest decision of his life. A young English girl, Christine Forrester, is behind the war, completing a plan of her dead father for Dyak freedom. With Christine's support Clyde can become rajah of Balingong. But Clyde is in love with Christine, and I (Paul Thorne) am, too. Christine is everything a white man says goodby to when the tropics swallow him up.

CHAPTER 28
"Balingong Needs Clyde"
So I went to the Avon. It was I instead of Clyde who sat beside Christine on the Avon's afterdeck while the low moon of Sumatran laid bars of silver across us, and the whole world seemed to swim every time she looked me in the eye.

First, of course, I explained that Clyde was too sick to come, and that I had persuaded him to go to sleep by promising that I would come and talk to her instead. I exaggerated, as much as I dared, how bad off he was--almost literally unable to keep his feet. She accepted that. After all, neither Captain Stocker nor her brother was very often standing up.

And now I explained to her as well as I could why Clyde would not take the rajahship of Balingong, even if he could get it away from Mantusen. I took a lot of time to it, but most of my remarks might just as well have been left unsaid. I could make her see his reasons, but I could not make her feel them. That his refusal was definite and final was all that really mattered to her.

I had expected her to protest when I finished my story, and try to reason with me, but she did not. Perhaps because it was I who was here, and not James Clyde, there was no argument, no weaving of dreams; only a long blackly empty silence, after I could find no more to say.

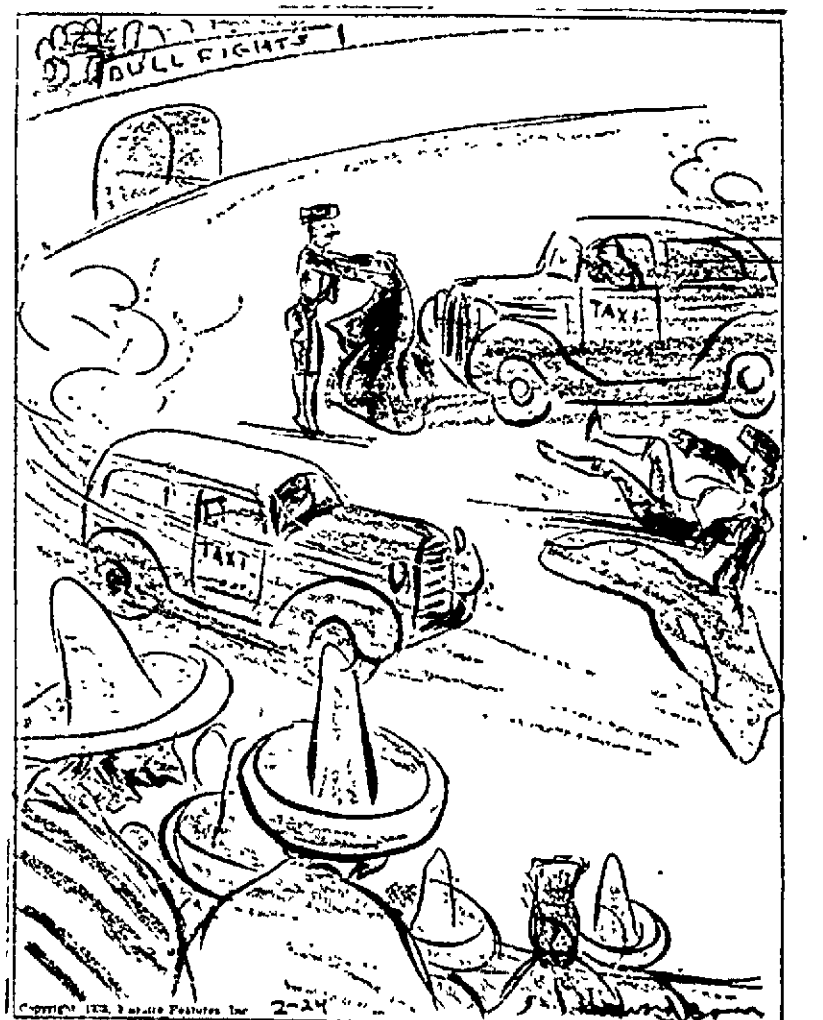

She said at last, "I believe--he really means it."

"I can tell you," I said, "that I know he does."

I had never seen her eyes go lifeless before. She turned her face to the water and this time the moonlight made her profile look

Waupaca High School Will Sponsor 'Counseling Days' For Students Next March

Waupaca—Waupaca High school is again planning to bring to its juniors, seniors, alumni and parents an opportunity to receive special assistance and guidance in attempting to help them plan for the future.

For the last two years representatives of colleges, teachers' colleges, universities, business colleges, and several vocations were at the high school for these "counseling days," in an effort to assist the young people in thinking through the question of "what after graduation." Several of the surrounding high schools have again signified their interest in sending their juniors and seniors to take part in the program, and students are expected from Manawa, Weyauwega, Scandinavia, Amherst, Wild Rose and Almond.

On the afternoon of Wednesday, March 16, and all day Thursday, March 17, juniors and seniors will be given an opportunity to confer with representatives of various schools and vocations. Under classroom will not be required to attend school during this day and a half, but sophomores are urged to attend and obtain information which will better enable them to plan the remainder of their high school course.

To Name Assistants
On Wednesday between 1 o'clock and 1:15 a committee of faculty and students will meet representatives, assign them their conferences, give them an outline of the day's program and help them to organize their materials. A faculty member will be assigned to each representative and will be present at all the conferences so that during the remainder of the school year information regarding each of the vocations and schools can be explained by someone locally to students who might have additional questions.

Between 1:15 and 2 o'clock all juniors and seniors of Waupaca High school, any sophomores who elect to attend, and all visiting students from other schools will assemble, when representatives will be introduced by name and school and will respond by standing to acknowledge the introduction. H. J. Armstrong of Wisconsin Employment service will give a short talk on "Employment Opportunities in Wisconsin Today."

Conference periods will consume the time until 4 o'clock, when students and parents will confer individually with any of the representatives. All conference periods will be divided into two parts: first, a general explanation by the representative for a time not to exceed 15 minutes, followed by the second period for individual questions by students.

Thursday, March 17, will be "College day," when representatives from county normals, teachers' colleges, colleges and universities will be present to talk with the local young people. Students from the surrounding high schools will be welcome as will be parents and adults. The program for the day will be similar to that of the day before including the assembly of students and the conference periods. Curtis Merriman, registrar of the University of Wisconsin, will talk Thursday morning on "Who Should Go to College?"

Will Check Attendance
Attendance of juniors and seniors will be carefully checked during the "counseling days" as will be that of visiting students if their principal so requests.

Until March 16 the faculty is attempting preliminary work in the classroom. August Vander Muelen is interesting the seniors in the problem of vocations and the analysis of the individual for the vocation. Miss Dorothy Gates is doing similar work with the juniors. The following vocations will be represented Wednesday afternoon: Nursing, by Miss Carrie Mae Dokken, assistant state supervisor; nursing school, state board of health, Madison.

Air conditioning, refrigeration and radio, by E. Krull, state service department, Milwaukee School of Engineering.

Military service as a career, Colonel William Holden, Wisconsin Veterans' Home.

EMPIRE FOR A LADY

very tired, and very pale. She did not speak for a long time.

When she did speak her voice was so sad, so unhappy that I was hurt by every word. It was as if she were looking down a long future that no longer held any shadow of hope.

"If ever in the world a time or place needed a man, Balingong needs Clyde."

If Clyde had been there then, I know that he must have broken. Or at least, he could have made him break. Suppose she had changed her words a little so that she said, "If ever in the world a woman needed a man, I need you now." She could have had my life in a second; and Clyde's too, I think.

Hooked!

Christine said, "There's only one thing left to do." Her words were so low that they were almost inaudible. "I will have to make my brother rajah of Balingong."

It hit me with a force that was awful. So this was why the British were the best empire builders on earth! No desertion, no lack of resources, seemed able to make this girl turn.

"He can't do it," I said savagely. "It isn't in him to do it."

"I know. But we — he — will have to try."

"I tell you, he can't succeed at it," I insisted. "He won't last six months, or if he does, he'll die here, and that will be the end of it."

"Captain Clyde is one of the finest and most able men I have ever known," Christine said; and her tone was as if she spoke of someone who was dead. "He could have brought this thing through. When I found out what he was, I thought he was a gift from God to these people. Without him, I see very little hope for Balingong. I suppose that all my father's work is just lost."

"But it's out of the question to consider putting your brother in there!"

She said with utter finality. "That is what I have to do."

I knew then that Clyde was hooked. She had him. She had him utterly and completely, and there was nothing he could do to help himself. How could he? He was there, tangled in the hopeless task of trying to rule Balingong through her sick brother? Nothing worse could happen to her than would inevitably happen to her there.

In the Name of Allah

And the only alternative was that he himself should attempt to seize the raj of Balingong. Whatever he might think of his chances, James Clyde was left no choice. He was bottled in Balingong bay as surely as if the guns of the whole Asiatic squadron were trained upon the pass.

What I was left wondering was how long he would live; and how far he would get with it; and at what point, beaten, discouraged, and broken, he would finally be forced to turn back.

Three days later, intricately inscribed in Arabic upon a parchment cut from the head of a drum, a document was drawn up ceding the raj of Balingong to James Clyde, Rajah, Lang di Pertuan, under stipulated terms of tribute.

It was signed by Mantenus of Saramba, and pledged upon the Koran in the name of Allah the Compassionate, the Merciful, the Shelterer of Orphans, than Whom and so on and so on.

For once the usual long siege of negotiations necessary to accomplish anything with a Malay rajah was foreshortened for us. The Tanyalong were still holding their fire, and under their influence the tribes were waiting to see what would break. But no man living could guarantee that this precarious truce would last.

Any hour some chance incident might bring on the last wild storm that would wipe out Mantenus and all his people. It was absolutely necessary that the Malays be got out of there at once, if they were ever to be got out; and Mantenus was as keenly aware of this as anyone else.

Even so, three deadly days, every minute of them electric with suspense, were required to complete the details of Mantenus's evacuation of Balingong. Elaborate agreements were reached as to the protection of such treasure as Mantenus must leave behind. Gifts were exchanged, Mantenus receiving Avon rifles, and Clyde receiving the most magnificent kris I have ever seen. Further gifts were set apart for Mantenus to take to Massin Ali, Sultan of Saramba. The exact method of evacuation was worked out in full detail, and after long argument.

How far will Clyde and Paul go for Christine? Continued tomorrow.

Clintonville Masons Have Washington Birthday Party

Clintonville — In observance of George Washington's birthday, a program was given Tuesday evening at the Masonic hall. The principal speaker was the Rev. Walter Schilling, pastor of the Congregational church, who talked on the "Life of Washington." The pastor emphasized numerous facts about the first president which are not found in common history books, but which have been gleaned from a more thorough study of his life. Pointing out the fact that Washington asked to serve his country without any pay, the speaker remarked that such a request would not be made today when greed and graft play such an important part in politics.

Studying the many letters which Washington wrote, it was discovered that even in those early days he admonished men against gambling, saying that it was one of the greatest vices, often leading to dishonor, dishonesty and frequently to suicide. "Playing the stock market and indulging in other forms of gambling still leads to the same results," continued the speaker.

The Rev. Mr. Schilling recalled the difficulties which faced Washington, who at the age of 43 was commander-in-chief of the Continental army which was poorly fed, poorly clothed, and poorly housed.

It is known that Washington was a religious man, who frequently indulged in prayer and attended the Episcopal church.

George Washington was also a member of the Masonic fraternity, the lodge records showing that he was initiated into the entered apprentice degree on Nov. 4, 1752; was raised to the fellowcraft degree on March 3, 1753, and became a master Mason on Aug. 4, 1753. He later was chosen master of Alexandria lodge in Virginia. In 1793 when the cornerstone of the national capitol was laid, George Washington marched with the Masonic lodge wearing his symbolic apron and other insignia.

The speaker was introduced by the Rev. W. H. Wiese, pastor of the Methodist church, and a personal friend of the Schillings who recently moved to this city.

Mr. Wiese also announced the program numbers which included community singing led by Miss Edith Gray with Mrs. George Spiegel as the pianist; two vocal duets by Lucille Winkler and Dorothy Fumelle with piano accompaniment by Gloria Black; songs by a high school boys' trio composed of Ralph Hyde, Warren Snider and Cyril Downham; and a group of instrumental numbers by a high school quartet, including Boone Miller, William Stieg, Lawrence Kemmer and Gloria Black. The group was directed by Everett Goli, high school band instructor.

Preceding the program, a covered-dish supper was served to about 150 Masons, Eastern Stars and children. Mrs. F. C. Walsh was chairman of the supper committee.

Mrs. James Kuester was hostess to her club at a dessert-bridge Tuesday evening at her home on W. Eighth street. Two tables of contract were in play with Mrs. Forrester Schaefer and Mrs. Carl Gulsen receiving the honors.

A desert-bridge was given for her club by Mrs. William E. Rosenow Monday evening at her home on N. Twelfth street. Eight guests were present and high prizes were won by Mrs. A. C. Haas and Mrs. Leo Kesting; while traveling prizes went to Mrs. Howard Bovee and Mrs. Carl Rosenow.

The Old Order Changeth.....

Once upon a time fat men took funny poodles for a frolic on the boulevard. But times and the styles in dogs have changed. Nowadays, the dog takes the man — and how! But while it's quite all right to be taken for a ride by your dog, it's not so good to have your money taken for a ride in that good old fashioned game of buying.

"Buy here and save" was the slogan that went over big only a few months back . . . but now housewives have awakened once again to the realization that only Quality Meats are Economical: 1. because you get more MEAT, and less bone and fat! 2. because you get 16 ounces to the pound! 3. because you protect your family's health!

Meats, poultry, sausage of the excellence you prefer.

Volume was comparatively small on the retreat and principal losses, at the worst, ran to little more than a point. There were several comeback intervals through the sluggish session, and resistance to the decline was shown by a few aircraft, utilities, gold mines and specialties.

Transfers were around 750,000 shares.

International Telephone shares and bonds were relatively active and, for the most part, higher as favorable earnings forecasts were made for the company and the latest British political move aroused thoughts of a possible settlement of the war in Spain where the communications concern has large interests.

In the drooping division the greater part of the day were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Westinghouse, American Can, General Electric, Du Pont, General Motors, Chrysler, J. I. Case, Sears Roebuck, Western Union, Ancon, Kennecott, Allis Chalmers, Johns-Manville, Union Carbide, Goodyear, Philip Morris and Santa Fe.

Contesting the reaction were Boeing, Yellow Truck, Consolidated Edison, Crane Company, Minneapolis-Honeywell, Homestake, McIntyre and Caterpillar Tractor.

Reaches Higher Ground

New York—(AP)—Better-grade corporate bonds followed United States treasury loans into moderately higher ground today. A number of railroad issues also extended previous gains, although the force of the recovery waned.

Toward the last hour, gains of fractions to more than a point were credited to International Telephone 5s, International Hydro Electric 6s, American Telephone 4s, 1936, Armour of Delaware 4s, Consolidated Edison 4s, National Dairy 3 1/2s, Northern Pacific 4s, Shell Union 3 1/2s, and Texas Corporation 4 1/2s.

Hog Quotations Continue Climb

Receipts are Smaller Than Estimated on Market At Chicago

Chicago—(AP)—The hog market was fairly active today at prices strong to 10 cents higher than Wednesday's prevailing levels. Receipts were somewhat smaller than estimated. Weights upward from 200 lbs were in demand. The top was $9.24 with the bulk of good butchers selling from $8.40 to $9.20.

Trade in cattle was largely of the forced variety because of sharply abated receipts. Fat steers and yearlings were 10 to 15 cents higher and active at the advance with all interests buying. Weighty steers stopped at $10, but the bulk sold at $7.25 to $8.50, chiefly because well finished stuff was absent. The stock was strong to 25 cents higher, and also in demand.

Fat lambs were 10 cents to as much as 25 cents higher with the top at $8.50 and $8.25 to $8.35 paid freely.

Selling Flourries Force Prices of Wheat Downward

Offerings Based on More Favorable Domestic Crop Reports

Chicago—(AP)—Intermittent flouries of selling based largely on more favorable domestic crop reports did a good deal to make Chicago wheat prices average fractionally lower today.

Downturns of wheat values were in the face of an official estimate that only about 30,000,000 bushels of United States hard winter wheat remained available for export. It was predicted all such wheat would be taken by importing countries because of the small world supply of hard milling wheat this year.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were unchanged to 1/2 lower compared with yesterday's finish, May 82 1/2, July 89 1/2, corn 1 1/2 off, May 58 1/2, July 61 1/2, and oats unchanged to 1/2 down.

Former New London Pastor Gives 80 Books to Library

New London—In addition to six new books being placed in circulation at the New London Public library this week, a collection of 80 volumes has been donated by the Rev. A. W. Sneesby, now at Amery, Wis., according to Miss Irma Hyde, librarian. A dozen of the more popular books are being prepared for the shelves this week also.

"Ordeal in England," a brilliant, candid view of a nation confronted by a world of gathering chaos, is the leading book of the new volumes to be offered. Written by Sir Philip Gibbs, reputed to be the best informed and most trusted journalist in Europe, the book is especially timely in conjunction with England's front page news events in the last week.

In demand by adults and children alike is another travel book by the three Abbie children, Patience, Richard and Johnny, authors of "Around the World in Eleven Years." Now they are in Hollywood and throw new light on the cinema city and its stars.

Two novels being released are "American Family" by Faith Baldwin, and a western, "Silver Spurs," by Charles Alden Seltzer.

One by Paul Siple, the only junior member of the Byrd Antarctic expedition, tells in "Exploring at Home," how he found adventure near his home in Pittsburgh. The book is written for the junior readers. Another book in the junior department is "A-Going to the Westward," by Lou Lenski, a story of the early pioneers' trek to the Ohio frontier.

Little children's books include "Su-Lin," the picture story of a baby giant panda; "Crazy Quilt," the story of a pony; and "Fifty Famous People," a book of short stories by James Baldwin.

The Sneesby donation includes books of all classifications. The following will be available to library patrons this week: "Magic Island," by W. B. Seabrook; "The Silver Spoon," by Galsworthy; "Letters and recollections of George Washington," by H. Threlton Mark; "Social Development and Education," by O'Shea; "The Edwardians," by V. Sackville-West; "Christ, the King," "The Dwelling Place of Light," by Churchill; "The Inside of the Cup," by Churchill; "Timothy's Quest," by Wiggins; "The Irish Beauties," by E. Barrington; "Herman Melville," a biography by Lewis Mumford.

Deny Application For House Permit

Zoning Board Declines to Authorize Structure in Industrial District

New London — The application of Archie Babcock for a permit to construct a $200 1-story dwelling along Oakman County Trunk 53 east of the Chicago and North Western railway tracks was denied by the city zoning board of appeals at a public hearing at the city hall council chambers last night. No one appeared for or against the application.

The appeal came before the board because the site of the proposed building is in the heavy industrial district set aside by the city zoning ordinance adopted last year, and the Chicago and North Western tracks are out of jurisdiction of Victor Thomas, city building inspector.

The vote was unanimous on the motion of Francis A. Werner that the permit be denied "because the site was in the heavy industrial district and the erection of the proposed type of dwelling was inconsistent with the spirit of the ordinance."

Andrew Lueck presided as chairman of the board. Others are Walter Spiering, Fred Morack and John Viel.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS REHEARSE 3-ACT COMEDY

New London—The scene above is a mere suggestion of the riotous action to be seen in the Theban 3-act comedy, "American, Very Early," which will be presented at the Washington High school auditorium Friday evening. To sell antiques two determined young women finally get the idea of fixing their shop as an old homestead furnished with the real thing. Left to right, Robert Wilkinson, with the horse collar, plays a nosey village lad who tries to sell the girls everything for an antique; Ruth Hanson, as one of the partners, hears more advice from a meddlesome water-borrowing neighbor, Ezra Buzzer as played by Maurice Levine; Audrey Dean, the other partner, is shown in a grandma costume she dons to fool visitors into buying.

Franklin leaped 147 feet on the big Ishpeming hill.

The skiers took part in all phases of the winter carnival and were among the first in the big parade led by the governor of Michigan, Harry Allen of the New London Ski club accompanied the team and witnessed the carnival spectacle.
